Ruin for Cotton Growers
The Shah of Persia
On Advising Voters
Farewell Trotzky

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

BELGIUM goes on a gold basis, the franc stabilized at two cents and three-quarters in real money.

An Arizona cotton farmer goes on a cash basis in this land of good crops at the lowest prices since Adonis dropped yesterday $1 a bale.

Makes Manchester and the Cheerful for they buy cotton and new cloth the heathen all the world.

• • •

CANADIAN sudden drop proves that the government seems unable to own farmers it is able to cure.

The government estimate of the 1926 crop at 17,454,000 bales, almost a million bales above the Oct. 1 estimate means ruin to thousands of cotton growers.

• • •

Ruin means, which is more important to politicians, a combination of cotton congressmen and the western bloc in the next congress. Such a combination will worry the administration.

• • •

THE new Persian Shah and dictator, Reza Khan, seems to have the good sense of other dictators—Mussolini, Kemal, De Rivera, etc. A bomb meant for him kills others. He can be relied upon to show even Mussolini how to suppress such attempts.

• • •

PERSIAN rulers don't stop half way. You remember the Persian Shah whose wife sent word from the grave that she was cold because her wardrobe had not been burnt with her body, to accompany her in death.

Immediately the Shah ordered all the best women, wives of the richest men in Persia, to gather in a great square for a holy festival.

When they had gathered soldiers ordered them naked, and so they went home. Their clothes and ornaments were all burned to pacify the Shah's dead wife. It is was a success. She never said that she was satisfied.

THE senatorial election in Massachusetts will test, to some extent, President Coolidge's influence in that state. He tells voters, "The presence of the senate of Senator Butler is of importance to me."

Senator Butler's defeat would not, by any means, indicate repudiation of President Coolidge by Massachusetts. Many voters reserve the right to make their own decision on candidates, even now that he is publicly indorsed, but Butler's defeat would not do President any good.

• • •

SOME newspapers remind President Coolidge of Woodrow Wilson's silly advice to voters. The cases are different. Mr. Wilson had got us into war and debt after much talk of keeping us out. President Coolidge, with Mellon's help, has been getting us out of debt.

• • •

TROTZKY is out of the picture of Russian government. Expelled from membership in the Communist party, he goes into the shadow. Zinovieff, Kamenev go with him. These quarrels among revolutionary leaders take back to the French revolution. Robespierre cut off Dantons head and others cut off Robespierre's. Trotzky and his friends are fortunate. They keep their heads for the present.

• • •

THE former Kaiser, it is believed, will return to Germany with the consent of Prussia. He has issued "a command" inviting 50 old friends to a royal court hunt at his Rominten estate and recently appointed a certain individual "princely court councilor." Apparently he does not quite realize that the big war is over and that he is part of the wreckage.

• • •

THIS country has little feeling about the Kaiser. He was foolish enough to drive the United States that its ship could travel on routes dictated by him, and would sink them. That ended his chances.

There is no bitterness against him. However, the Germans might learn something from the French, who have made a success of their republic for years.

Surrender to the French crown, however remote, may set foot on the road.

If Germany to permit the former Kaiser's return is like planting an acorn in the body of the German republic.

Toledo Arms Itself to Capture Clubber

THIRD BRUTAL MURDER OCCURS INSIDE OF YEAR

Maniac Slugger Strikes Down and Kills Young School Teacher During Night

RETURNING FROM CLASSES

Volunteer Guards To Patrol Streets Tonight and Citizens Carry Guns

Toledo, Oct 26—The maniac slugger has struck here again, his victim this time being Miss Lily Croy, 26, a school teacher, whose battered and criminally assaulted body was found in an ale of the Washington public school building at 1:30 a. m. today.

Every peace officer in Toledo has been put on the trail of the fiend already held responsible for clubbing and attacking seven other women, three of whom he killed.

Miss Croy was attacked upon her return from attending night classes at Toledo University. The left side of her head was crushed, as if from three or four strokes of a club or bar. Her clothing was torn from her body.

Coroner Henzler, who examined the woman's body and declared that she had been criminally assaulted, also stated that the evidence indicated it was the crime of an insane person.

Detectives were of accord that the murder marks the third visitation of the fiend who terrorized the community here last November. For two weeks, the depredations of the crazed clubber continued. His crimes finally were stopped when 1,000 ex-service men formed a vigilance committee and patrolled the streets by day and night. In January, this year, after public terror had somewhat calmed, the clubber struck again, employing the same methods. In each instance, he swooped from a dark recess upon a lone woman, clubbing her into insensibility and attacking her. Again, for two weeks, police sirens screamed forth at night with alarms.

His second campaign of crime was apparently stopped when police rounded up all persons who had been discharged from asylum institutions as having been cured. These were reincarcerated.

Swift steps have been taken to end the maniac's depredations. Toledo tonight will be in armed civilian camp. Every citizen will be permitted to carry arms and thousands of volunteer guards will patrol the streets and byways in the hunt for the murderer.

FURTHER PRICE BOOSTS IN COAL ARE PREDICTED

N. E. Arnold, Local Dealer, in Columbus Conferring with Fuel Company Heads

N. E. Arnold, president of the Chapman Coal & Supply Co. and manager of the Carter Oak Coal & Supply Co., of this city, is in Columbus today, conferring with fuel company officials of that city in regard to the sharp boost in coal prices effective during the last few days.

During the last 10 days coal prices in Marion and other Ohio cities have headed skyward as the result of the British coal strike and the corresponding increase in export demands, Mr. Arnold said today.

Despite the fact that export demand has boosted the price of block coal more than 100 per cent during the last 30 days, Cincinnati wholesale coal experts today predicted that a run on the market will undoubtedly cause another leap.

Wholesale operators pointed out that export demands on West Virginia coal have sent the price from $2 to $4.50 a ton, and the same condition would prevail for at least 90 days.

PROTEST FILED

Columbus, Oct. 26—Protest was filed with the Utilities Commission today by the Ohio Valley Transportation Co. against the commission authorizing the Wheeling - St. Clairsville - Cambridge Transportation Co. to operate a bus line between Woodsfield and New Matamoras, via Flv. The Ohio Valley claimed it had made prior application for permission to extend its line over that route.

SELL HUGE ISSUE IN RECORD TIME

New York, Oct. 26—A nation wide banking syndicate to be headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. sold in excess of $50,000,000 of six per cent Belgian government bonds in record time today.

Half an hour after the opening of the subscription books, the Morgan Co. announced an oversubscription of the bonds and the closing of the subscription lists.

Proceeds of the new loan, added to an equivalent amount made available by the sale of $50,000,000 bonds in the European money centers, will be deposited in the Bank of Belgium for the purpose of stabilizing the Belgian currency at home and abroad.

COUNCILMEN TO CONFER FRIDAY ON SIX WARDS

Effort Will Be Made To Reach Definite Decision on Redistricting

Effort to reach a definite agreement on a plan for redistricting the city of Marion into six wards will be made at a conference of council members and other municipal officials to be held Friday night in the office of City Solicitor Grant E. Mouser. The conference was called Monday night by Emery E. Murphy, president of Council.

Two maps outlining proposed redistricting of the wards were submitted to council two weeks ago and it was found that opinion of the members was about evenly divided. Since then a third plan has been outlined and is said to be viewed with favor by several members of council.

Proposed Change

This proposed would leave the first and second wards, located north of Center st, stand unchanged and would divide the third and fourth wards. It is pointed out that this arrangement would necessitate comparatively few changes in the present boundaries of voting precincts and in addition to simplifying the redistricting would keep cost of the undertaking at the lowest possible figure.

The redistricting is required under the state law which regulates the number of wards in a city according to population. The last census showed that Marion is in the six-ward class.

BURGLARS LOOT J. D. WISE RESIDENCE AND BARN

Take Purse Containing $40 and Pen, and Five Bags of Potatoes

Burglars visited the home of J. D. Wise at 879 E. Center st Sunday night and did a thorough job by looting both the residence and barn, according to reports filed Monday at the local police department. The barn is a building used by J. D. Wise & Son for storing of groceries.

Discovery of the burglary at the residence was made by Mrs. D. M. Sutler of Dayton, daughter of Mr. Wise, when she returned from a visit with friends to another part of the city Sunday evening. She found that her pocketbook, containing $40 in cash, a pen and other articles which she had left on the piano, had been stolen. All members of the Wise family were away from home during the evening.

Entrance to the dwelling was easily effected and it is believed the burglars walked in at the front door.

After the barn the burglars obtained five bags of potatoes, indicating that they were probably traveling in an automobile or truck. Entrance to this building was effected by prying off the lock and staple which held one of the doors.

BULLETIN

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 26—The senate slush fund inquiry into the activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana and the relation of Senator James E. Watson and Arthur R. Robinson, Republicans, to the hooded order, will be resumed here Thursday morning, Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, chairman of the one-man investigation, announced here today.

• • •

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 26—A sweeping inquiry into the relations of Senator James E. Watson Republican of Indiana with the hooded ranks of the Ku-Klux Klan, appeared a probability today as the senate slush fund inquiry into the Indiana senatorial race reached an impasse here.

Finding Mrs. Vivian Tracy Wheatcraft, vice chairman of the Indiana Republican State Committee, too ill at the local hospital to be questioned, Reed recessed his inquiry temporarily. It was reported, however that the Missouri senator was considering a further investigation of the charge, that Watson "sat in" at a conference of Ku Klux Klan officials in Washington, which resulted in the ousting of Walter F. Bossert, former grand dragon of the Indiana realm of the Klan.

The one man slush fund inquiry which Senator Reed carried through three states in the last week, arrived here today with its director general ready to postpone further investigations of senatorial campaign until after the November election.

Four developments at the Kansas City hearing protected Reed excellent "leads", but the Missouri cyclone "announced he intended to abandon the inquiry until after the American electorate has passed upon the revelations to date. He reserved the right, however, to question Mr. Vivian Tracy Wheatcraft, vice chairman of the Indiana Republican Committee at the Liberty Hospital here where she is confined with illness.

Two newer persons personally identified Mrs. Wheatcraft had admitted organizing the Republican women of Indiana into "poison squads to report to Senator James Watson Republican through a victory by 60 up. The Kansas City development, meanwhile, threatened to stir up new complications for the Ku Klux Klan, the Republican party in Indiana and Senator Watson in person. They were the startling charge of Ralph B. Bardloff former Crown Point, Ind. lumberman, that

SIMPSON ORDERED OUT OF GRAND JURORS' ROOM

Special Prosecutor Says He Must Wait Till Nov. 3 for Indictments

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 26—Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor in the Hall Mill murder case after being ordered out of the grand jury room today, stated that he would be unable to present indictments against accessories to the murders before the trial set for Nov. 3.

"I had planned to have the Somerset County grand jury convened later this week to hear evidence against 'alleged accessories' he stated, "but I can't do that now. The only way left open now is to bring the matter before the Hudson County grand jury after the trial of the chief defendants."

The Somerset County grand jury met today against Simpson's wishes as he had stated that he would be unable to present further evidence until later in the week.

MAKES FRANTIC EFFORT TO SEE PAT M'DERMOTT

Canton Workhouse Warden Refuses To Allow Mazer Attorney To See "Key Man"

COURT TO ACT ON MOVE

Man Long Sought in Murder Not To Receive "Third Degree," Is Claim

Canton, Oct 26—Motion of Ed L. Mills, counsel for Louis Mazer and Ben Rudner charged with the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, that he be permitted to see McDermott, the third man to be indicted for the murder, was overruled this afternoon by Common Pleas Judge A. W. Agler. The judge in overruling the motion, stated that the "key figure" in the murder had not requested counsel and therefore he was justified in refusing the application.

• • •

Canton, Oct 26—A fruitless attempt to get to Pat McDermott held as the "key man" in the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, before he has a chance to spill the beans to Detective Ora Slater and Prosecutor C. B. McClintock was made today by Attorney Ed L. Mills, attorney for Louis Mazer, charged with first degree murder in connection with the same murder who traded a motion asking the court to allow him to visit McDermott in the Canton Workhouse.

Mills announced that McDermott had expressed a desire to talk to him but that he Mills, was barred from the Canton workhouse by Warden John Boyer, who would not allow him access to the prisoner.

Emphatic denial that Pat had expressed such a desire was made by McClintock and he announced that he would fight the motion to a standstill.

The three common pleas judges, Charles Krichbaum, A. W. Agler, of Canton and Frank M. Cleveland, of Wilmington will probably hear the motion some time today, it was learned.

No "Third Degree"

Mills' move came close on the heel of an announcement by McClintock that he and Slater intended to quiz McDermott some time today.

In a conversation with the prosecutor last night before going to Cleveland, Ed and McDermott brother of "the key man" who helped to bring him to Canton, is said to have declared that his brother neither wanted nor needed legal aid.

Psychology will play a prominent part in the questioning of Pat today, Slater declared.

"There will be no attempt at 'third degree' methods of grilling. Everything will be quiet and orderly and the interrogation and prosecutor will engage in a "quiet little conversation" with Pat, in which the entire tone of the detective are will be in of as much the same manner in which he talked to Jake Nesbitt, Troy man, who later confessed to the murder of his wife.

Apartment Puzzle

"Although Pat has already told a much, he has not gone into sufficient detail," McClintock said. "We will not talk to him in a threatening manner and try to show him that it is for his own best interests to come clean."

Interest in the mystery surrounding the slaying of Mellett veered sharply today from persistent efforts of sifting development that may be brought to light in a confession from Pat McDermott, believed key figure in the murder, to an elaborate farm hoax perpetrated in Cleveland, the address unknown, where McDermott claimed to have been hiding for three months while state investigators were combing the country in an effort to apprehend him.

Belief that the solution to the entire

MERGER OF MAIL ORDER HOUSES BEING RUMORED

Report Results in Heavy Trading in Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery-Ward Stocks

Chicago, Oct. 26—Persistent reports of a merger of the country's two oldest mail order houses, Sears, Roebuck & Co., and Montgomery Ward & Co., resulted in heavy trading in the shares of both in the local stock market today and advances of two points in the former and four points in the latter.

While there was no confirmation of the reports, officials of the concerns would not deny that the two houses with combined assets of $220,000,000 might be merged. They said, however, that formal discussion had not taken place.

Cadiz, Oct. 26—With the calling of more state witnesses, all testifying to having heard frequent quarrels between Mr. and Mrs. Harry Webster, formerly of Steubenville and Columbus, the trial of Mrs. Webster, charged with the second degree murder of her husband, got under way again here today.

The case started Monday.

Marie Starts on Canadian Excursion While Gossips Make Merry With Rumors

Mysterious Conferences Are in Order on Royal Section of 11-Car Special Train; Denial of Recall Report Issued; Queen's Cold Better

Aboard Queen Marie's special train, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 26—Amidst an atmosphere of intrigue rivaling a Balkan political convention, Queen Marie of Roumania left the land of democracy today for an excursion into Canadian territory.

While the glories of the world's greatest waterfall were unfolded to her majesty's eyes, whisperings and rumors of various sorts filled the corridors of the eleven car royal train.

The publicity which crowned the hoodoo ceased about the report that Queen Marie had been called back to Roumania by King Ferdinand.

A specific denial of this was issued through one of her majesty's spokesmen. Nevertheless, mysterious conferences were held in the royal section of the train. The Roumanian secret service men aboard also showed exceeding activity. Her majesty with cold humored, left American hospitality for a few days with a beautiful slave bracelet clasped to her shapely wrist. The jewelry was a gift from the city of Buffalo. It was of 18 karat gold studded with jade and cost the city fathers $125.

The Buffalo city council went to considerable trouble to give her majesty a royal reception. They even wired the royal party of dress suits and high hat would be the proper receiving uniform. A royal attache who'd back that it was customary, and the welcoming committee appeared faultlessly attired from the waiters at the royal dinner to the white gloves.

ICY TOUCH OF WINTER AGAIN INVADES CITY

Mercury Column Drops to Freezing Level During Night

Marion last night and early today continued to feel the icy touch of winter when the mercury for the second time this week jumped to the freezing point.

More snow fell early today, apparently crowning it and in the "clearing up" of the sky.

Continued fair weather is predicted for tonight, accompanied by a heavy frost. Wednesday will be fair with little change in temperature, according to the official weather report.

The mercury yesterday climbed to 49 degrees but again dropped last night, registering 32 degrees. A year ago the low mark was 38 degrees while the highest point reached was 45 degrees.

Search of their baggage revealed $11,000 in cash, a $50 Liberty bond, five pistols and a couple of cartridges.

The quartet arrived here on an auto late Monday with four handbags and one steamer trunk.

HARRY HOUDINI STILL IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Detroit, Oct. 26—Harry Houdini, world famous magician, still was in serious condition today after an operation for acute appendicitis yesterday.

Attending physicians announced that the appendix had ruptured for over on the left side of the abdomen and a streptococ peritonitis had developed.

Houdini collapsed at the conclusion of Sunday night's performance. He appeared in the show, it was thought, under a handicap, rather than to spoil a capacity crowd.

FUND NEEDED TO BRING FACTORY TO CITY RAISED

Concern Will Be Located in Studebaker-Wulff Building on Lincoln-Av

AWAITING COURT ACTION

Many Citizens Respond to Call of Chamber of Commerce To Discuss Industry

A new factory for Marion, to be located in the Lincoln av plant formerly used by the Studebaker Wulff Rubber Co., is practically assured as the result of action taken by a group of citizens Monday afternoon in subscribing the full amount of a fund needed to help pay the cost of moving the industry from the city where it is now operating. The money was raised within an hour at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Marion National Bank building.

All that remains to complete negotiations, it is announced, is formal acceptance by the bankruptcy court, where the Studebaker-Wulff business is in process of liquidation, of a proposal to purchase the factory site and building for the new industry. The company recently entered into an agreement with the local Chamber of Commerce to file a bid for the property on condition that a small amount of money be contributed by Marion citizens to pay part of the moving expenses.

To Act At Once

The purchase proposal will immediately be made to H. P. Grindle, of Findlay referee in bankruptcy in the Northern District of Ohio. Following the courts' acceptance, which is expected within a few days, complete details regarding the new industry and the plans for bringing it to Marion will be announced.

That Marion citizens are ready to get back of any project intended to develop and expand community resources was clearly apparent, Chamber of Commerce officials say, in the meeting Monday afternoon, which was held in response to an announcement of the proposed new industry published Saturday. The Chamber of Commerce rooms were filled with representatives of virtually every branch of business in the city, all expressing willingness to help bring the factory to Marion.

Successful Company

The factory that is now practically sure to be added to Marion's list of industries is operated by a substantial successful company. It is announced, and has excellent prospects of growth and increased production. The sole reasons for moving are based on dissatisfaction with operating handicaps in the community where the plant is now located.

HICKMANS ENROUTE TO OHIO CITY AFTER ARREST

Men Wanted for Questioning in Shooting of Policeman Apprehended

Chillicothe, Oct. 26—John and Montrose Hickman, Columbus, wanted for questioning in connection with the shooting to death of Policeman Dan Garrett here on the night of Oct. 14, arrested near Point Pleasant, W. Va., will be brought back here today, Sheriff Fred Immell and Acting Police Chief Philip Kehn left early this morning for the fugitives.

Before leaving, the officials indicated the Ross County grand jury, now in recess, may be reconvened to hear evidence in the case.

Meanwhile, Rosetta Doland, Columbus, and Cleo Webb, Deanville, who admitted, police say, they were with the Hickmans on the night of the murder, were still in jail here, Miss Webb sat sullenly in her cell while the Doland girl continued to express joy that their two erstwhile companions had been apprehended, police said.

Columbus Woman and Man Found Dead Near Delaware

Delaware, Oct. 26—A man and a woman, believed by authorities to be Mrs. Grace Brown of Columbus, and O. H. Betts, postmaster at Garrett, Ind., were found dead in an auto on the Powell-rd near here, today.

The woman had been shot through the breast. The man had a bullet hole in his head.

A bottle of poison on the floor of the auto led the sheriff's office to believe the man had slain the woman and then suicided.

A note found in the auto was addressed to Cloyd Brown, a student of Ohio State University. The Browns formerly resided in Lima.

The note said:

"I can't stand this any longer."

HARDING ROUTE THROUGH CITY TO BE CHANGED

Highway Will Follow Original Course, City Councilmen Decide

The Harding Highway will be changed back to its original course through Marion as the result of a resolution adopted by City Council at its meeting Monday night authorizing the State Highway Department to designate Center st and Kenton-av as the route. This action was taken after B. F. Blake, appearing as spokesman for the Marion Accomodale Club, advocated the change.

Last spring the route of the highway was changed at Lenhart's to prevent farming of property on the Hocking Valley Railway as originally. The new course runs west from Marion to Center st, north on Center to Kenton-av.

Mr. Blake explained that the present route has several disadvantages the most serious being the unnecessary congestion of traffic. Often freight trains, the highest trailer, almost the entire length through the city, go "tough" and become lost on that part of Center st extending between the plant of the Marion Malleable Casting Co., eventually finding themselves on the road leading to the Marion Packing Co. plant. As a consequence of this confusion, tourists have frequently spent a half hour or more finding their way out of the city.

Safe Crossings

Another point in favor of the Center st and Kenton-av route, it was pointed out, is the fact that watchmen are on duty continuously at the main railway crossings, while on Silver st there are eight hours during the night when the watchmen are not at their posts.

Delay due to trains blocking the railway crossings on Silver st are also frequent, Mr. Blake stated. He informed Council that he had consulted Grover C. Snyder, division engineer of the State Highway Department and that Mr. Snyder assured him the state would be willing to restore the former

HOW BROOKS FLETCHER AND WIFE SURPRISED OHIOANS AT CAPITAL INCLUDING VICE PRESIDENT DAWES

Tuesday night, October 26th, at eight o'clock Brooks Fletcher and his wife are giving a benefit program at the opera house in Mt. Gilead to help raise money for the boys of the American Legion and all the members of the Hancock county legion and their friends are invited.

At Findlay College

On Monday night, November first, at eight o'clock in the auditorium of Findlay College, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher will give a two hundred and fifty dollar benefit as their contribution to the twenty-five thousand dollar Dr. Guyer fund being raised by friends of the Findlay College.

Congressman Brooks Fletcher was a friend and great admirer of the late President of Findlay College, Dr. Guyer.

All the Findlay and Hancock county people who plan on hearing Congressman Brooks Fletcher and his wife at Mt. Gilead or Findlay College will be interested in the following newspaper account of how Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher surprised Ohio People in Washington, including Vice President Dawes.

Vice President Dawes and Brooks Fletcher

Congressman Brooks Fletcher's first speech in Washington was a sensation that took the Vice President of the United States by surprise and was received with thunderous applause by a great audience of Ohioans.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft is President of the Ohio Society before whose members on the McKinley Birthday program Congressman Brooks Fletcher and his talented wife made their first formal appearance in the national capital.

Through the years there have appeared on the programs of the Ohio society the most distinguished men of the nation. On this occasion Vice President Dawes and Congressman Brooks Fletcher of Marion were speakers.

The following is from the Washington correspondent's comment on Congressman Brooks Fletcher and Vice President Dawes as published in the Columbus Dispatch:

Dawes Eclipsed

"For once Vice President Chas. G. Dawes has been eclipsed as a platform speaker.

"Accompanied by Mrs. Dawes, the fire eating, Senate defying, hell and-Maria hero arrived. He was given a tremendous welcome as he strode to the platform of Rauscher's hall, packed to capacity by a distinguished audience.

"Everyone leaned forward. There was an air of suspense. Perhaps Dawes would take another wallop at the Senate. Perhaps he would attempt to put Senator Simeon D. Fess, who was present, on the griddle. Perhaps he would spring some new sensation. Reporters were present ready to make the most of it.

"There was evident disappointment when Dawes bowed himself off the platform and retreated from the hall. Then Brooks Fletcher advanced to the platform. Judge Foster gave him a speedy send-off by saying, "Now watch Brooks Fletcher make good."

Fletcher Applauded

And Brooks Fletcher proceeded to make good with a double vengence. First he poked derisive fun at Dawes to the huge delight of the crowd. He remarked he was sorry Dawes had not stayed to hear him.

"I hope some day," Fletcher said with a sardonic smile, "that I will be in a position where Dawes will have to listen to me."

This was taken as a notice by Fletcher that the House is a mere way-station enroute to his main objective, the United States Senate, and he was gleefully applauded.

"Congressman Fletcher further ingratiated himself with his listeners by a gracious tribute to Mrs. Fletcher, who had previously charmed them with two exquisitely rendered vocal selections. He intimated that he probably never would have come to Congress except for her.

"You know she campaigned around the district with me," he explained. "First she would sing, then she would make a speech, and while I was making my speech she would sit on the platform and take my speech in shorthand for the newspapers so the people flocked to see and hear her and then remained to endure me.

Fletcher, Harding and McKinley

"Fletcher then launched into his eulogy of McKinley whom, as a boy in Canton, he had known. He compared McKinley with Harding with whom later, at Marion he became acquainted as a real publisher. Before they realized it those present found themselves caught in the spell of a real orator.

"Brooks Fletcher had everything. And when he closed the thunderous ovation he received voiced the feeling that here was a man who appropriately represented the Harding Congressional District and the great state of both Harding and McKinley."

LOCAL STORE EMPLOYES GRAND THEATER GUESTS

Uhler-Phillips Co. Employes Attend Showing of "Take It From Me"

So great has been the success of a department store night that the Grand Theater management decided to have a night for employes of each of the stores in Marion. Last night the employes of the Uhler Phillips Co. were guests of the management of the Grand Theater. Monday night. The picture is Reginald Denny's first big special attraction. It is entitled "Take It From Me" and has to do almost entirely with the operation of a great department store.

In fact this picture was almost wholly made in a department store in Los Angeles. It was made during Sundays and at nights after the store closed for business. One of the most exciting scenes in it is a "million dollar" style show, which was staged in the store and many thousand of dollars worth of beautiful gowns used.

"Take It From Me" is a comedy drama and it is not claimed that any great educational benefits will result to the store employes who see it. But it is claimed that it will give them a good many laughs.

Denny is supported by a great cast including Blanche Mehaffey, Ben Hendricks, Jr., Lee Moran, Lucien Littlefield, Jean Tolley, Vera Lewis and Tom O'Brien. Libel Wales and Bertram Johns also have fine parts in the big cast.

Annual Quiver Carnival to be Held at Harding High School Next Friday Night

Relatives and Friends of 895 Students in School Expect To Attend Yearly Event Given To Boost Official Publication

Mothers, fathers, grandmothers, grandfathers, uncles, aunts, brothers, sisters, cousins, friends and all interested in any one of Harding High School's 895 students will be in attendance at the third annual Quiver Carnival, given by the school and sponsored by members of the Journalism classes and their teacher, Miss Lucile Foreman at 7:30 o'clock next Friday night at Harding High School.

In true Hallowe'en style, the party has been arranged the weekly paper, the Quiver. Many startingly impossible, terrifying unusual, notoriously original carnival attractions are being prepared. Admission will be free, no matter in what conception of masquerade costume their guests appear, but no masked guests will be admitted in protection of the school property.

Among the attractions will be the ever popular fortune-telling booth which will be held in the school library under the direction of Miss Isabel Lyter, instructor. Assisting her will be Misses Helen Carhart, Hazel Barkley, Kathryn Bell, Frances Sautter and Marie Keshner.

Misses Ruth Starr and Jean Freer assisted by students of the Sophomore class, will be in charge of a "Fish Pond" from which many attractive trophies will be gleamed by certain some guests.

Production

"Living Songs" is the title of a production being arranged by Misses Margaret Wolfley and Mary Helphrey, with the aid of a number of students. This performance will be presented in West Hall.

"The Musical Boat," a feature attraction which will be presented in East Hall, is sponsored by Miss Hazel Markwith and is in charge of Richard Zachman.

Kinesian Club girls, with the help of their instructor Miss Rachel McAfee, are planning a number known as "A Study in Black and White."

Miss Verna Swartz, student, together with Miss Pauline Richards, teacher, and Jack Grace, student will present a program known as "Madame Butterfly Does Her Work," a reproduction of the well known Japanese Operetta. The performances will be conducted in the "Green Eye Studio."

J. H. Stark and Duane Bonfer, instructors, together with Walter Webb and James Baker of the Master Singers and George Gretzer and Darrell Long, students, are making arrangements for a booth known as "The Green Eye Studio," as to the nature of which there is no information.

The refreshment sponsors, the most outstanding committee of any social function, include Misses Priscilla Smith, Louise Cunningham and Mabel Turney, while Misses Mary Pennock and Veda Shaw are in charge of that beverage, so essential to a Hallowe'en party—the cider. Hallowe'en favors and attractive little novelties planned precisely for memory books, will also be for sale.

Students in charge of the sale of tickets for the affair are Kyle Porter, Walter Moore, Robert Lindsey, Ralph Hinklin, George Stafford and Harold Waddell.

City Solicitor Tells Council Railroads Should Provide Every Possible Safeguard

Railroad companies in Marion should be required to maintain their crossings so that every possible safeguard for traffic will be provided, City Solicitor Grant E. Mouser, Jr., informed members of City Council at their meeting Monday night.

[illegible] The work is needed for the purpose of [illegible] the present grade. The track [illegible] will be moved to make room [illegible] for the construction of tracks.

Council being informed that [illegible] complaints that the crossing is unsafe, has been created. It is possible that the railway company will be required to make repairs.

The decision, it is declared, is a result of a group of citizens on the West Center st are planning to start court proceedings against the Hocking Valley Co. for illegal encroachment on private property for the construction of tracks.

CALLING OF WITNESSES TURNS OUT BOOMERANG

Long Beach Officer Says Blind Attorney Claimed Evangelist Was Alive

Los Angeles, Oct. 26—Called as a witness by the defense, the testimony of Detective Lieutenant Ralph L. Alyea of Long Beach today had proved to be something of a boomerang as the Aimee Semple McPherson conspiracy hearing proceeded into the fifth week.

The Long Beach officer said that R. A. McKinley, blind Long Beach attorney, who was subsequently killed in an auto wreck, had told him that he was sure the woman evangelist was alive at the time she was reported drowned.

Attorneys for Mrs. McPherson had hoped to prove their client's story of being kidnaped by Alyea's testimony, for McKinley, it is alleged, had offered to produce, for $25,000, the man and woman whom Mrs. McPherson claims kidnaped her while she was swimming. The state contends, however, that Mrs. McPherson's story of being kidnaped was nothing but a hoax and that during a part of the time she was missing she was in the company of her radio operator, Kenneth G. Ormiston.

Superior Judge Carlos Hardy, adviser to Mrs. McPherson, occupied the stand for the greater part of the day. He conducted many of the preliminary negotiations between the evangelist's mother and McKinley.

District Attorney Asa Keyes also was called to the witness stand by the defense who hoped to establish that it was through a telephone call from his office that negotiations between McKinley and Mrs. Kennedy were opened.

Holding that such evidence was nothing but hearsay, the state succeeded in keeping it out of the record.

MOLDER CASTS IN BETTER FORM; HE LIKES HIS WORK

J. B. Chain Feels Like a Real "Come Back" Since He Has Been Using Tepee Herb Tonic.

J. B. Chain, 458 E. Sandusky Street, Findlay, Ohio, is a molder in the employ of the Buckeye Ditching Company. He has lived in Findlay sixty-three years.

Several years ago Mr. Chain's health began to fail. He was constipated, his food didn't agree with him and his work tired him. He tried numerous treatments but nothing helped him.

At a time when he was feeling mighty bad he read about Tepee Herb Tonic. He tried it. He says:

"I think Tepee Herb Tonic is the finest medicine in the world and it has made me feel perfectly splendid.

"Before I took Tepee Herb Tonic I was troubled with constipation and I never could find anything to help me. Cathartics helped me for a while, but it was not long before the effect of them wore out.

"Then I was taken down with the flu. After the flu my stomach was to trouble me. Food didn't agree I had spells of acute indigestion.

"I felt bloated and stuffy. My nerves became upset and I couldn't sleep. My health kept right on getting worse.

"Then I started to use Tepee Herb Tonic and right away I could see an improvement. Tepee worked on my bowels and it didn't wear out. The longer I took it the more relief it became.

"My appetite returned. My nerves relaxed and when I went to bed I could sleep like a log. Instead of arising in a rundown condition I feel like I am perfectly well and I give credit to Tepee Herb Tonic."

Tepee Herb Tonic may be had in Marion at Bradley's, Hennes & Lawyer's, Wm. M. Stump, Bartlett and all drug stores. Richwood, H. D. Kyle.—Adv.

MODIFICATION OF PRIMARY HAS BEEN SUCCESS

Apathy and Lack of Attention in Past Years Lamentable, Leaders Say

Columbus, Oct. 26—Ohio is the political political state of the union.

This once was recognized generally, and of her position, citizens were justly proud. In late years, however, Ohio has been more or less uncertain in regard to her adherence to definite parties and political standards, wavering from one side and then, to another, resulting frequently in the election of a state chief executive of one party and a legislature of the opposite political persuasion. This, of course, has resulted in waste, lost motion, inefficiency and great expense without accomplishment.

The electorate also, has become alarmingly indifferent, even on great issues and no longer becomes excited, even in local campaigns when its friends are seeking offices or attempting to put over a measure designed for public and community benefit.

Apathy Lamentable

This apathy and lack of attention to any political campaign is lamentable, for in the end, the political contests is the sole means of educating the rank and file in the realm of politics—the science of government, which is all-important to the stability and efficiency of American democracy.

Through indifference by the electorate, party lines are becoming erased. Some of the electors attribute their indifference to the fact that their parties are controlled by cliques, blocs and factions, and point with derision to the last Ohio legislature, where such a situation existed.

This government is of, for and by the people, and it is in the light of cross-fire of party conflict that the will of the people is disclosed. Parties are the necessary instruments of government in all representative democracies, and the existence of two fairly-balanced parties is recognized by every practical worker and every student of political science, as a rare guaranty of a pure and efficient government.

Therefore, any force that would undermine parties in representative government tends to undermine government itself.

Situation Serious

In this respect, great numbers of Ohioans, Democrats as well as Republicans, who regard the situation as extremely serious, aver that the direct state-wide primary, written into the constitution in 1912, is tending to disintegrate and destroy the parties.

This primary law, as it stands, it is contended, has proved its unwholesomeness, as one views the indifference of Ohio voters because parties are bloc-controlled and ridden by factions. At the time the constitutional provision requiring state officers to be nominated by a primary was adopted, it was thought the law would be a good thing.

Now the thoughtful men and women are becoming convinced that it is time to "reform the reform."

Ohio is not alone, for other states, notably New York and Indiana, have modified the compulsory statewide primary so as to permit nominations to be made by conventions, delegates to which are elected by the people. This has proved successful.

Change Advocated

And this is the change in the constitution that is advocated by Ohioans who are represented by the Ohio Primary Modification Committee, and which will be voted on at the November election.

The amendment proposed that the constitution be amended so as to permit the state legislature to pass laws providing for nominations by conventions, but requiring that the delegates to these conventions be elected by the people.

The task of presenting the amendment to the electorate has not been an easy one. However, under the guidance of a number of capable, reputable men, the Primary Modification Committee was formed, and over numerous obstacles, succeeded in having the proposed measure placed on the ballot.

The modification committee is composed of Charles L. Knight, former congressman and Akron and Springfield publisher; H. H. Timken, Canton manufacturer; Louis H. Brush, one of the publishers of The Marion Star, formerly the newspaper of the late President Harding; Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati, speaker of the house of representatives and son of Chief Justice Taft, and Harry L. Davis, Cleveland, former governor.

CITY COUNCIL ORDERS SIDEWALK IMPROVED

Stones Will Be Torn Up and Relaid on Both Sides of Henry-St

That numerous sidewalks throughout the city should be relaid and raised was the opinion expressed by members of City Council at their meeting Monday night when a resolution was adopted authorizing the Director of Public Service to raise the walk on both sides of Henry-st between Darius and Buckeye sts. Because of present conditions, water stands on many walks throughout the city following rains, causing great inconvenience to pedestrians, councilmen and other officials stated. A general reconstruction program is impossible, however, due to insufficient funds.

Health Measure

Raising of the Henry-st walk was ordered because of especially urgent need of a remedy there. Henry-st was a typhoid fever center during the last summer, most of the cases reported to the board of health having developed there. While contaminated wells were designated as the primary cause of the disease, there is possibility, officials believe, that the condition of the sidewalks, which forced residents to wade in water following rains, may have been a contributing cause. The menace to health is regarded as especially serious for school children living on the street.

The section of Henry-st where the repairs are to be made is about 500 feet in length, so that approximately 1,000 feet of sidewalk will be relaid.

ASKS COUNCIL TO OPEN STREET TO NEW PLANT

A. J. Seiter Unable To Come to Agreement with Owner of Property

A. J. Seiter, who has started construction of a saw mill on ground between Cheney-av and the Pennsylvania Railway, appeared before City Council at its meeting Monday night, to seek advice regarding extension of Gill-av to provide an outlet for the products of his plant. He is unable to agree with one property owner on the price of land needed for opening the thoroughfare, he stated, although he has come to terms with other property owners.

Mr. Seiter was instructed to make every effort to arrange a voluntary purchase and that if he finds this impossible, to file a petition preliminary to condemnation proceedings.

The mill to be operated by Mr. Seiter will be the only one of its kind in the city and will fill orders from local lumber companies in addition to turning out finished products for retail trade. He expects to employ about 25 men when the business is in full operation. He is proceeding with construction of the building, which will measure 60 by 110 feet, in spite of threatened difficulties over the street opening.

SWEETHEARTS OF SLAIN GIRL ARE GRILLED

Reward of $1,000 Offered for Solution of Murder of Beulah Purvis

Cincinnati, Oct. 26—Six former sweethearts of Beulah Purvis, murdered Connersburg, Ind., "cotton stocking" country girl, were to be questioned today by sheriff's deputies investigating the baffling slaying.

Another man, known about the Harrison, Ohio, skating rink as "Charlie", was also being sought by the officers in the hope that from him a solution of the crime might be wrung.

"Charlie" was said to have threatened Beulah's life when she refused to permit him to take her home from the skating rink several weeks ago, investigators declared.

The girl also was said to have told friends that she "was afeared of Charlie."

Father of 25

Meantime, authorities sounded a warning for a highway "sheik with the imprint of the heel of a shoe on his face" for Beulah, before she was beaten, stabbed, kicked and thrown lifeless into the Big Miami River last week, was thought to have used her shoes as she always did when angered.

Her father, also the father of 25 other children, 11 of whom are living, declared that "she always used her shoes right smartly."

A reward of $1,000, offered by county commissioners yesterday for the arrest and conviction of her slayer today added a new impetus to the investigation.

Blood-soaked gravel along the Big Four Railroad near where the body was found last Wednesday, added another angle to the mystery today.

SEEK WOMAN IN KILLING OF MAN

Newport, Ky., Oct. 26—While across the Ohio River authorities were trying to find the man whom they thought could solve the murder of Miss Beulah Purvis, whose body was found in the Big Miami River last week, authorities here today were trying to "find the woman" they believe could explain the mysterious death of John Bucholz, 42, Dayton, Ky., cabinet-maker.

The body of Bucholz was found late yesterday in the Ohio River at Taylorsport, near here. An ugly cut over the right temple gave mute evidence that death had set in before the body was hurled in the muddy waters.

Police today are searching for a woman who phoned headquarters late last week and told them that "Bucholz' body had been thrown into the river."

BACK IN MARION FOR FIRST VISIT IN 41 YEARS

Jacob Kolb, Who Moved to Kansas in 1885, Renewing Old Acquaintances

Back in Marion for his first visit here in 41 years, Jacob Kolb, who was a pioneer bricklayer of this community and helped construct some of the outstanding structures of the up-town district, is a guest at the home of his nephew, R. E. Prettyman of 195 Orchard-st.

Mr. Kolb, who is now a farmer and stock raiser near Meade, Kan., is well known to many of the older residents of Marion and plans to visit with these former acquaintances during his stay of about a month here.

Born Here

Mr. Kolb was born and spent his earlier years at the old family home located on what is now known as Crown Point, at the junction of Prospect and Pearl-sts. At that time Crown Point and all of the section surrounding it, now covered with hundreds of modern homes, was sparsely settled and used chiefly for farming.

As a brick-layer, Mr. Kolb was in the employ of Godfrey Leffler, one of Marion's pioneer building contractors and helped construct Hotel Marion, the Pilgrim Inn, then known as the Kerr House, the County Jail, and various other important structures.

Mr. Kolb moved to Kansas in 1885 when Marion was a town of about 5,000 inhabitants and this is his first visit here since that time. Mrs. Dodd, who was a sister of the late Thomas P. Dodd, postmaster at LaRue, died about a year ago.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS G. O. P. RALLY AT LA RUE

Addresses Given by James R. Hopley and Robert L. Rohe

A large crowd attended the Republican rally at LaRue, Monday night, the first of a series of campaign meetings which will be held at various villages in Marion county during this week. The principal addresses were given by James R. Hopley of Bucyrus, candidate for congress in the Eighth district, and Robert L. Rohe of Tiffin, candidate for State Senator.

Most of the Republican nominees for county offices were present and took the opportunity to urge their election. The meeting was held in the LaRue Opera House.

Asa Queen of Marion was chairman and gave a brief talk urging the election of Hopley because he would be in sympathy with Coolidge policies.

In his address, Mr. Hopley pledged himself to support the policies inaugurated by the late President Harding and continued by President Coolidge. He declared himself against foreign debt cancellation, in favor of protective tariff and for a continuance of federal tax reduction and government economy. He said that the interests of more than 100 manufacturing concerns in this congressional district call for maintenance of the protective tariff.

Mr. Rohe, who is now Seneca county representative in the Ohio General Assembly, said that if elected State Senator it will be his aim to improve the service of the welfare department by eliminating politics from its management. He also pledged himself to vote for confirmation of appointments on the various state commissions when such appointments were of men whose honor, integrity and ability are unquestioned.

FRANCIS SUTTLES FINED $20 FOR INTOXICATION

Francis Suttles, age 22, of 576 Wilson-av, was fined $20 by Mayor Hazen, Monday afternoon, on a charge of intoxication, and was placed in the county jail pending payment. Suttles was originally accused of driving an automobile while intoxicated, it being alleged that his car went into the ditch along the Prospect-pk Sunday night while he was at the wheel. Due to the fact that proof that he was driving at the time was lacking, the charge was changed to intoxication.

IN view of jail breaking, and the unusual energy of criminals, wouldn't it be a good idea to let jailers wear gas masks and install in the corridors and the main office valves that, when opened, would flood the jail with some convincing gas of the mustard type? in a conference in Washington with Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans and other klan officials, which resulted in the resignation of Walter A. Bossert, a Watson foe, as grand dragon of the Indiana klan, because the latter objected to the klan being "sent down the line" for Watson.

Claim "Clear Sailing"

Second — W. Lee Smith, present grand dragon, was named to succeed Bossert by Imperial Wizard Evans, "for the purpose of delivering the Indiana klan to Jim Watson."

Third — The Watson organization spent from $75,000 to $100,000 in Lake County—Indiana—in the primary alone to elect the Watson ticket, while bootleggers were forced "at the point of a gun" to contribute, and gunmen were imported to terrorize anti-klan voters."

Fourth—A women's Ku Klux Klan organization was operated in Indiana the same as the male order and it, too, was "sent down the line" for Watson.

In connection with the latter charge, Braddock produced a letter written by Mrs. Lora Foote, an official in the female klan, which contended that "Jue Hoffington has been given control over Indiana political affairs. That means our man, Watson, will have clear sailing with the klan."

Claims Charge Serious

So serious did Reed consider these charges against Watson that the Missouri senator announced he would allow the Hoosier senator to file an affidavit with the committee at any time in reply to them.

"I don't see any possibility of inquiring further into the Indiana situation until after the election," Reed said this morning. "I consider the Kansas City developments very significant, not only to the people of Indiana, but to the American people in general.

When our full committee meets after the election, it can decide then whether it wants to run down any of these new charges of corruption, terrorism and fraud in the Indiana primary."

REITERATE DENIALS OF KLAN CHARGES

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 26—Senators James E. Watson and Arthur R. Robinson, Republicans of Indiana, today reiterated their categoric denials of any connection with the Ku Klux Klan as charged again in Kansas City yesterday by Ralph B. Bradford, of Crown Point, Ind., before Senator James A. Reed's "one man" slush fund probe committee.

Senator Watson was scathing this morning in his comment on the testimony developed at the Kansas City hearing.

"There's not one syllable of truth to it," Watson said. "I am getting tired of all this 'hearsay' stuff which has not one iota of foundation of fact. It's all bunk and nonsense. If Jim Reed wants an affidavit from me, he can have one, but I am not going to rush up to stick it under his nose. I am trying to bring the people to the real issue of this campaign and get away from this Ku Klux Klan stuff and nonsense."

SCHENECTADY ENGINEER TALKS AT HARDING HIGH

Charles M. Ripley Discusses Progress of Electrical Engineering in Recent Years

Charles M. Ripley, of Schenectady, N. Y., addressed a number of Harding High School students in assembly in West Hall yesterday afternoon. His subject dealt with the progress of the world mechanically and especially through the aid of electricity, one of the things for which Schenectady is famous. During his talk a number of lantern slides were thrown on a screen, illustrating his point.

Foremen and members of the executive training classes at the Marion Steam Shovel Co., 200 in number, were addressed at 7:30 o'clock Monday night in the company's dining hall by Engineer Ripley.

The forepart of his talk dealt with the rapid changes in religion and in schools, due largely to the increase in transportation facilities, which enable the more rapid development of civilization.

Screen Views

A number of interesting pictures showed the development of the locomotive, and modern machinery in comparison to that used in early American days. In contrast to pictures of the slaves, who by hand, built the Egyptian pyramids, was shown the powerful machinery employed in the building of structures like the Woolworth Building today. Scenes in modern textile plants were shown and explained after which the use of the spinning wheel was shown and explained.

Electricity, Mr. Ripley upheld as one of the fundamentals in the advance of civilization, while a number of pictures of powerful electric devices were flashed on the screen, as an electric steam shovel, a Marion product, electric lawn sprinklers, electric water pumps, and finally, in conclusion a number of contrivances to be produced by future Edisons, as electric snore absorbers, electric sleep awakeners, and electric push buttons for admitting and emitting the family dog and cat. In concluding, Mr. Ripley made a plea for the development of future Edisons and scientists, saying that in their hands rests the advancement of civilization.

And it sometimes happens that a man is married to his boss.

CONTRACT FOR KRESGE BLOCK WORK AWARDED

Charles W. Taylor, Zanesville, To Construct New Building on W. Center-St

The new S. S. Kresge building, a three-story structure which will be the location of one of the Kresge "Green Front" stores at 143-147 W. Center-st, is to be constructed by Charles W. Taylor, of Zanesville. The contract was let to Mr. Taylor, Monday afternoon, by R. E. Ramsdell of Detroit, the Kresge Co's general superintendent of construction, who received bids at Hotel Harding.

Construction will start at once, Mr. Ramsdell announced today. Mr. Taylor returned to Zanesville Monday night and expects to be back to get the work under way Wednesday. Terms of the contract call for completion of the building, a three-story structure of steel, stone, brick and concrete, in March.

It is Mr. Taylor's intention, he announces, to employ as many men living in Marion as will be required to complete the building within the specified time limit.

Columbus Man Here

The Kresge Co. will be represented during the construction by R. M. Gortner of Columbus, one of the company's building supervisors. Mr. Gortner will be in the city until the work is completed and finally approved.

The new Kresge building will be an absolutely modern store structure in all details. The first floor will be occupied almost entirely by an immense sales room and offices and on the second floor will be rest quarters, club-rooms and a restaurant for employes. The basement, extending under the entire building, will be used for storage of stock. Plans for the third floor have not been completed.

The store front will be of the Romanesque style of architecture, with long arched windows above. Pink Minnesota granite will be used for pilasters and base encasing three expansive show windows and two entrances.

Goes to Ft. Wayne

Mr. Ramsdell came here from Batavia, where he let the contract, Friday, for the construction of a new Kresge building and left today for Ft. Wayne, where a similar contract is to be awarded Thursday. Bids for a new building at Bloomington, Ind., will be opened Nov. 1.

Since Jan. 1 of this year, Mr. Ramsdell says, 60 new Kresge stores have been opened in various parts of the country and 50 of these are housed in new buildings owned by the company.

An interesting feature of the Kresge building project here was the accomplishment of G. H. Shartzer of Dayton, who had the contract for tearing down the three-story Barlow building, which for 35 years occupied the site of the new structure. The Barlow building was razed and all material cleared away in eleven and a half working days. Mr. Shartzer's force of workmen cleared away the last of the material today, leaving the site ready for building operations.

Two Stores

When the Kresge "Green Front" store is in operation, the company will have two stores here, a "Red Front" being located on W. Center-st directly opposite the site of the new building. The new store will handle merchandise selling at 25 cents to $1 and the one now in operation handles goods of the five cent to 50 cent class.

The front of the Marion Kresge building, Mr. Ramsdell states, will be modeled largely after the structure now being erected by the company in Columbus.

murder mystery may be contained in this apartment was expressed today by Detective Ora Slater who with Prosecutor C. R. McClintock brought McDermott back to Canton Sunday night.

"I believe that when we ascertain the whereabouts of that apartment, we will be able to reveal the real motive behind the slaying of Mellett, for which Louis Mazer, Ben Rodner and Pat McDermott, alleged trigger man, are now facing trial on first degree murder indictment," Slater said.

"The real mystery today," continued Slater, "lies in the identity of the man or group of men who gave Pat enough money to lie low for three months in an elegantly furnished apartment and to furnish him with everything his heart desired. It was this same group of men or their emissaries who came to take Pat away from his first hide-away when we went to get him a month ago. Two dark looking men, was the way the landlady of the boarding house where he stayed, described him to us.

"There seems to have been a lot of money used in this case," Slater continued. "Steve Koscholik, the informer, told the investigators that he was promised $2,500 if he would pull the trigger and then backed out. Dickerings had been made with others for big prices to do the job, we learned, and now comes the report that money, big money, has mysteriously appeared from no known source to fight the prosecution of the case against the three indicted men."

While McDermott was being held incommunicado in a solitary confinement cell in the Canton workhouse today, prior to a visit from Slater and McClintock who will attempt to obtain his confession, his brother, Bernard McDermott, who helped make the delivery of Pat to authorities, was in Cleveland, ostensibly searching for the mysterious apartment of unknown address. Bernard claimed that Pat had never given him the exact location of the hideaway, but that from information he managed to glean from his brother's talk, Bernard believed it could be discovered.

McDermott's confession, investigators claim, will incriminate another man, believed by police to be a person who has figured prominently in the talk surrounding the slaying and whose whereabouts are clothed in mystery.

"I don't know whether we shall call the grand jury from its recess to issue a new indictment," McClintock said, "but rest assured that if McDermott does incriminate any other person, we will go after him."

Flurry of Snow Brings Plea for Coal Stove to Red Cross

WITH the first flurries of snow and the first real taste of winter yesterday there came a plaintive plea to the headquarters of the Marion County Chapter, Red Cross, in the Trumbull building on S. Main-st.

It was that of a mother, recently separated from her husband, a plea for a stove to heat the little home in which she and her two daughters lived.

The mother could not afford to purchase a stove as her sole income amounts to $10 a month, a sum paid by the husband and father for the support of the children.

Her appeal was directed to the Red Cross, an appeal in a mother's voice pleading for the comfort of two tiny daughters, one 10 years old and the other three years.

The Red Cross, however, is not equipped to furnish the stove and is calling upon some kind hearted person who has a soft coal stove no longer in use to respond.

A soft coal stove is desired as there is a small supply of heating material at the home, left over from last winter.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.—Adv.

Deserving of Reelection.

The Star is utterly out of sympathy with the criticism by his political foes of the course of Senator Frank B. Willis in bringing the accomplishments of the federal administration into the Ohio senatorial campaign. If there are issues above all others on which a senatorial campaign should be waged, they are national. And we believe it a duty which the senator owes himself to show what support he rendered to the furthering of executive policies and measures.

Senator Willis received what to all intents and purposes were two mandates to support the policies of President Coolidge. One came from the country as a whole, the other from the citizens of his own state. The popular plurality given President Coolidge was the largest ever received by a candidate for the presidency. It demonstrated the country's approval of the Coolidge policies. The popular plurality given President Coolidge by the people of Ohio was also the largest ever given a presidential candidate in this state, and likewise spoke the approval of the people of Ohio of the Coolidge policies. Thus Senator Willis not only received a mandate from the people of this state to support the policies of the president, but also that of the people of the entire land. If the senator complied with these mandates and carried out the will of the people of this, his own, state and also that of the voters of the country, we believe he is justified in reciting that fact in his campaign for reelection.

We have a high admiration for his opponent, Mr. Pomerene, and have not been at all adverse to so saying, but at the same time we have a very high opinion of Senator Willis and see no reason why one who has carried out the will of the people of Ohio expressed by them in support of the president should be supplanted by one who, being of a party opposed to that president, may not give him support. We here assume that the people are still steadfast in their support of the policies which brought the return of prosperity.

Again this paper is glad to voice its commendation of the record of Mr. Willis as a members of the upper house of congress. We esteem it an honest and honorable one. We have been particularly pleased with his course in the offensive against the Chicago lake water steal, in which he has manifested a high degree of leadership against a well-organized and conditioned assault upon the public right, and his outstanding position as an advocate of the enforcement of the prohibition law has appealed to us strongly. Even the senator's most bitter political enemies will pay him the tribute of being consistent in the matter of prohibition. There are so many members of our national legislative bodies who are but theoretically dry that it is a relief to find one who is consistent. And his consistency, to our mind, is the senator's greatest offense in the eyes of those most bitter in their opposition to him. We feel that it would be an injustice should such a man be penalized for being a consistently conspicuous upholder of the organic law of the land.

Our feeling is that Senator Frank B. Willis should be elected on his record to succeed himself.

LET THERE BE DARKNESS!

Easy To Avoid Gout.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It is surprising how many of our physical disabilities can be traced to bad eating habits.

When we learn how to eat, what to eat and when to eat we shall be far out on the road to good health and long life.

Perhaps the first eating lesson should be to find out what not to eat and when not to eat. Few of our troubles come from lack of food.

It is certainly true of eating that there can be "too much of a good thing." Temperance in eating is just as important as another form of temperance of which we hear a great deal more.

One of the diseases founded on appetite is gout. It is almost as common today in America as it used to be in England. This is not due to the eating of roast beef by any means, but to the overeating of many other foods.

It is the popular idea, of course, that beef-eating is the great causative factor. As a matter of fact, any food rich in what scientists call "purines" may be harmful to the gouty person.

Purines are chemical compounds which are found in the tissues of plants and animals. Uric acid is a common example. Caffeine, which occurs in tea and coffee, and the bromine found in tea and coffee are other forms of purines.

Fruits, butter, cream, cheese, rice, milk, bread, eggs, oatmeal and other foods contain no purines. Beef extract, bouillons, livers, sweetbreads, brain and kidneys are rich in purines. Beef contains less than half as large a percentage of purines as liver.

This little lesson, giving examples of purine-free foods and foods containing high percentage of purines should be taken to heart by the person who has a tendency to gout. A little attention to the diet will go far toward warding off this painful disease.

There are several forms of gout. What the doctors call "acute gout" is the periodical occurrence of severe pain, swelling and redness in the joints of the hands and feet, particularly of the big toe.

We may laugh about the gout, but we won't laugh if we have it. On the contrary, the victim of gout is cross and irritable. He feels too mean to smile. His digestion is upset. He can't sleep for the pain, and is down and out for several days.

When the local symptoms disappear there may be vomiting, difficult breathing, pain in the heart, palpitation, headaches and fainting spells. The local trouble may be overshadowed by these more serious symptoms.

The effects of chronic gout are familiar to everybody. The enlarged and knotty joints and deformities of the fingers are symptoms of this ailment.

Certain skin and eye troubles, cramps and some forms of kidney trouble may be traced to gout.

In the acute form the victim is put to bed and kept quiet. The sore foot is elevated and kept warm. Simple food, rest and quiet will soon relieve the symptoms. The family doctor will select and prescribe the medicine.

Certain mineral waters may be helpful. But the important thing is to be warned and to begin at once to avoid the foods rich in purines. Temperate eating and drinking will go far toward guarding against further attacks, which are sure to come unless care is exercised.

Vagrant Verse.

ON THE SPANISH MAIN.

A crumbling fortress, once so proudly gunned;
A sagging bull ring; shabby plazas sunned
For centuries; gray-green cathedral bells
That tolled when heretics and infidels
Descended on this azure Carib coast.
A place of memories; a grisly ghost
Of splendor, slain; an empty residence
Of Mistress Spain's decayed magnificence.

Fancy, alone, could resurrect this town
As once it was when Morgan's hosts swept down
To rape and pillage. Coming from the sea
One hears the sobbing surf, the threnody
Of tropic winds; and sad-voiced, wheeling gulls
Chant requiems for sand-embedded hulls—
Hulls that were galleons, stately, treasure-packed,
But now a water-eaten cataphract
For warriors and sailormen who died
A sacrifice to Spain's unbending pride.

Tourists, at wine in shadowed patios,
Accept the wilted petals for the rose.
They use new slang, and talk of movie plots
And radios, and California lots.
It matters little, since the wine is strong
They bring their own modernity along.

Yet, through quaint streets of cobbled crookedness
Slim senoritas stroll, and still express
In their demeanor, deeds of high emprise,
And mirror ancient grandeurs in their eyes.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

Now that I'm going all around the country, telling all I know to a different crowd every night, I hear a lot of stories about people that talk to audiences. Take 'em for all and all, these people that talk for a living have plenty of worries. But the worst times are had by the speakers with a message, I'm told. Well, you see, if a crowd excepts to be treated to a laugh and the guy in the long-tailed coat just reads 'em a high-brow lecture on some dimension or other, why what can you expect? The politest crowd, in a case of that kind, sometimes walks out quietly.

So I heard of one fellow that was billed by mistake to be a comedy, and it turned out that he had a message. He was speaking for the starving Armenians, or something like that. Well, the crowd started stealing out on him when he was about half through, and just when he got to the touching part of the lecture, where he was telling some great truths, most all the folks remembered that they had left the gas turned on at home. So this person gets all red clear up to his hair, and he says, "Ladies and gentlemen, just a moment, please! I won't keep you long, as I have only one more pearl to cast!"

Well, I don't know whether there was anybody to get his pearl or not, but I'll bet that audience felt about as cheap as the professor, at that.—Copyright, 1926.

Possibly a Natural Conclusion.

It is probable that Queen Marie, with her entree into our best society and all, is already under the impression that cocktails are specifically exempted from the operation of the prohibition law in our moral country.—Ohio State Journal.

With the United States restricting immigration, Australia is gaining fast in population from European countries. Australia is in the temperate zone, has millions of farming acres up-to-date cities and is gathering greatness in every way. If Australia can get the same proportion of good citizens by means of immigration that we in America have, that wide country will be rich indeed.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 26.—Shortly before midnight an odd assortment of humanity flocks to brilliantly lighted midtown to sell first editions of morning papers. They stand in the wind or pouring rain. Murder, scandal and a world [illegible] make [illegible]

They are not the "leather lunged" newsboys so familiar to destitute Manhattan, but aged and middle-aged men who reveal a shabby and genteel past is rather sad. It would appear [illegible] they are future [illegible] who take advantage of every opportunity to turn an honest penny.

They do not accept sales in the hurrying masses but seem to like to exchange a bit of trifling gossip. It is quite easy to see the have-been better days. In some cases they are so feeble and rheumatic their wives accompany them.

There are companions in misfortune to the shawled and bonneted ladies who sell faded bouquets and packets of chewing gum under theater canopies as audiences leave. They too seem miscast for labor offering such thin rewards.

Most of these old folk I am told live in rickety tenements on the fringe of the Chelsea district. They gather coal along railroad tracks to keep out the chill and work at irregular odd jobs for rent and lean food fare.

Many are eligible for charitable help that will lighten the burden, but this they refuse. The fight for age-old independence is difficult, but they carry on with a courage that is heartening.

Variation of an old one. A distinguished writer with large, translucent ears and buck teeth met one of those beautiful, but rather brainless, show girls at a studio party. She wore a wonderful Parisian creation.

"You look like a Watteau!" he exclaimed.

"You're nothing to get drunk over yourself," she snapped coldly.

He has spent a fortune to star her and she remains about where she started—a vapid doll like creature of some beauty who chews gum. One venture after another has been ballyhooed to the skies with thunderous publicity only to crumble into devastating flops. Nowadays they seem to get a little pleasure in being pointed out among celebrities at first nights. Yet fame even of this sort is evanescent. The other evening after a premiere the usual curious crowd stood gaping at the departure. She walked to her car with him at her heels—both a trifle self conscious.

"That's them," whispered a mistaken bystander, "Peaches and Browning."

The diet craze has cost restaurants and hotels more money than people realize and is one of the contributing causes for such items as "Sliced peaches—ninety cents" on menus. People go to cafes, but don't eat—especially the ladies. At luncheon most women order a salad and that is all. One dietician says seventy-five per cent. of the women of leisure do not breakfast. Yet cafes and hotels must keep perishable foodstuffs on hand at all times and most of it goes to waste.

And there are those successful men who could order anything they desired, but instead nibble at a spray of water cress and a Graham cracker in fear of adding to their embonpoint. COUNCIL CHANGES CITY'S ORDINANCE ON TRAFFIC

Several New Stop Points at Street Intersections Added to Code

An ordinance amending Marion's traffic code by adding several new stop points at street intersections, which has been pending several weeks before City Council, was adopted by Council at its meeting, Monday night. Delay in enactment of the amendment was due to the desire of council to include all additions regarded as important in order to avoid frequent changes in the traffic code.

The amendment provides that automobiles shall be brought to a stop when approaching Fairground-st on State-st, Prospect-st on Superior-st, Center-st on Oak or Leader and Silver-st on Avondale-av, Senate-st, Lee-st, Oak-st or Leader-st.

In addition to stipulating these stop points, the ordinance restricts autoists to one way parking on S. Senate and Charles-sts. Only the west sides of these thoroughfares are to be used for parking.

Presents Petition

Council received a petition from Frederick Reissinger, asking that a sewer tap assessment of $41.60 levied against his property, lot No. 8430 on Oak-st, be remitted on the grounds that he has already paid for a sewer connection. The matter was referred to the sewer committee for investigation.

A petition from property owners asking that a street light be installed 50 feet north of 426 N. Grand-av at the south end of Spencer-st was referred to the light committee and a resolution was adopted ordering the Director of Public Service to install a light on N. Sprague-st between Fairview-av and Hecker-av.

"Just pat on a few drops of Sloan's Liniment. Don't rub. It's the liniment—not the rubbing—that helps. You'll get relief right away. I've tried all sorts of other things, but nothing gets results like Sloan's."

Letters like this from hundreds of users of Sloan's tell of the wonderful relief that Sloan's gives to every kind of muscular pain.

Sloan's gives real and lasting help because it doesn't just deaden pain, it goes at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh, new blood. Quickly and surely it carries off the "fatigue-poisons," takes out stiffness and drives away the pain and pains.

Ohio Needs the Great Leadership That Is Exemplified in the Life and Activities of Myers Y. Cooper

Cooper
The Citizen

The people this year have an opportunity to apply the wisdom of our forefathers in choosing for governor a man whose career as a citizen of his city, his state and his country has been one of outstanding achievement.

Myers Y. Cooper embodies all the ideals that underlie the principles of good citizenship. He is today the president of the Ohio Council of Churches, an organization dedicated to the purpose of religious advancement. He is a deacon of the Walnut Hills Christian Church; as chairman of its building committee he raised $200,000 with which to build a new edifice.

During the world war, Mr. Cooper personally raised $500,000 for war activities, as division chairman of the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. From the public platform he raised another half million dollars through the sale of Liberty Bonds.

Mr. Cooper has been president of the Ohio Fair Managers' Association for a decade; he is a trustee of Lincoln Memorial University, president of the Withrow Community Center, president of the Hamilton County Agricultural society, and is past president of the Hyde Park Business Club, and of the Hyde Park Community Center, which he founded.

As Governor of Ohio he can be depended upon to bring to the executive chair the same principles of citizenship which have made him an outstanding figure in every civic and public enterprise with which he has been identified.

Cooper
The Friend of Agriculture

Time was when the farmer paid scant attention to the problems of state government. He felt that he could best serve his state by attending his plow, and he left the problems and policies of government to other hands.

But of late years taxation has become more burdensome, other problems of agriculture have increased, and the farmer has realized the necessity of his day in court.

Farmers of Ohio today have the opportunity to elect a governor whose interest in agriculture was inherited at his birth. Myers Y. Cooper was born and reared on a farm in the hills of Newton township, Licking county. In his early days he learned the problems and vicissitudes of rural life.

His interest in agriculture led him into the Hamilton County Agricultural society, of which organization he is now the president. He is also president of the Ohio Fair Managers' Association with an enrollment of 1600 members, a post he has held for 10 years. He is responsible for a law bringing agriculture to the boys and girls in the public schools. He owns and operates a 320-acre farm in Butler county—one of the model farms of the state.

What Mr. Cooper has done for the advancement of agriculture in his private life, he will do as governor of Ohio. He can be depended upon to use the state department of agriculture for the best interests of the farmer, and to lend an ear to any suggestions from those who till the soil.

Cooper
The Business Executive

The state of Ohio, with capital upwards of $50,000,000, backed by assets and a reserve running into billions of dollars in natural resources, fertile farm lands, thriving industries and successful business enterprises, is one of the biggest corporations in the world, with upwards of 6,000,000 stockholders.

This corporation holds its biennial stockholders' meeting on November 2, when it will elect an executive, and every qualified voter is entitled to express his preference for the directing head of this gigantic corporation.

The Republican party presents for this office Myers Y. Cooper, who, after more than a quarter of a century of business activity, stands out as a man with unusual ability as an organizer, and an executive whose business judgment has fitted him for this all important chair of executive authority.

He is president of the Hyde Park Lumber Co., of the Hyde Park Savings Bank, the Norwood National Bank, the Sterling Lumber Co., and the Raymond Realty Co. His contribution to Hyde Park is outstanding, he having built over 2000 homes in this section alone.

Being a sincere believer in practical economy as a result of its application to his own successful enterprises, Myers Y. Cooper can be relied upon as governor to apply the same principles to governmental business, with the result of better administration, greater efficiency, lower operating costs and the resultant decrease in the burden of taxation.

Cooper
The Workingman's Friend

Labor is the great source from which nearly all, if not all, human comforts and necessities are drawn.

Here in Ohio we have a monument to labor in a system of compensation for injured workmen which has become the model for many other states. Myers Y. Cooper has repeatedly stated his unqualified belief in our state system of workmen's compensation, and that he will strive to strengthen and solidify it in every way possible.

Mr. Cooper's relationship, through a quarter of a century, with those whom he has employed, has left a record that is spotless. It has merited praise from employer and employe alike. In 25 years of close and intimate relationship with workmen, wherein the organized trades have been the media through which his personal endeavors were accomplished, Mr. Cooper has not had a single labor dispute.

One-third of the men employed by him are the owners of their own homes. Thousands have been the beneficiaries of the plan originated by him providing for the purchase of a home on the rental payment basis.

Workmen in the fields of industry find in Mr. Cooper a man on whom they can depend for honest, straight-forward treatment.

Mr. Cooper has had the endorsement of labor organizations and leading labor journals because of his relations with wage earners in his home community.

Elect Myers Y. Cooper Governor of Ohio and Insure Administration of State Affairs That Will Inspire the Confidence of EVERY Citizen

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother? If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting, waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleaning" is ofttimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Roberta Risks It

By MARGARET CAMERON

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

NIXON, vaguely suspicious of the diminutive, erect figure in widow's weeds and determined to uphold every question of the store, had re-entered the store as the inevitable clearing house of local gossip. Therefore, ostensibly seeking toilet soap, he waited his turn of general merchandise.

"You seem to have quite a large stock," he said pleasantly to the salesman. "Looks as if you must do a good business."

"So so, for a village."

"You don't have many strangers here, I take it."

"Not this time o' year. Some Boston folks have houses here for summer, and the tavern's pretty full then, too. You search there?"

"No, I'm staying at the Jersey Inn. I'm just riding around today to see the country. Never was up here before. But I saw a lady on the street—a little girl of seven or eight. Dressed in black. Pretty as a picture."

"Must been Mis' Smith. She was a little bit of a woman, more'n eight years, with curly hair. Come from Boston."

"Oh, she's taken a house?" Nixon ventured that Roberta sent to re-sources with a relative. "Healing has she been ill?"

"She come Jet's see. Tuesd's mornin', I guess 'twas in her car, with a shofer. Nice-mannered feller he was. Not a bit stuck up. She's got a hired girl here, too—funniest old Scotch woman ever you see! Sharpen a razor. Gosh, but she's a caution when it comes to gettin' her money's worth. She's honest enough. I give her a penny too much change the other day when I was in a hurry, and she brought it right back. Says she's worked for the family ever since the master as she calls him was a little tyke. He died a couple o' months ago, out West somers, and they say Mis' Smith is ill broke up. Guess she must be pretty well off, though. She never looked at the price o' the house. Paid a month's rent in advance and said she'd stay all winter, if she liked it."

Nixon—well-exclaimed she isn't the person I thought she might be. I didn't at her face," said Nixon, and was well satisfied that he had been mistaken.

Yet the gait and carriage of that small, shrouded figure haunted him. They were so much like Roberta's.

Piggy was more troubled by Nixon's proximity than he had admitted to Roberta, for he was by no means sure that Scott had not installed the young man as guard over the dovecote in his own absence, in which case it might be wise to postpone action.

Turning this over in his mind, he strolled down to the tavern after dinner, as was his nightly custom, and there he learned that a stranger on horseback had passed through the village during the afternoon, stopping briefly at the store for a drink and to inquire the way to Jaffrey.

"He," said Piggy to himself, a salesman, who was preparing to go up for the night. Here was a chance to get rid of Nixon. And he'd start at once.

"Nice Scot."

"Wonderful."

"I know Scotland was quite a resort to the Jaffrey people and I'd like to see the country. He seen Mis' Smith here on the road an' thought she was somebody he knew."

"Did he?" Piggy looked up with an interest easily interpretable as sarcasm. "Maybe he's been out here. Did he say anything about Seattle?"

"Now I come to think of it, he said she couldn't be the one he thought, then."

"Oh," said Piggy, concealing his joy with a proud gloss. "Guess I'm clever! Gettin' to be a regular sleuth. Guess I'll go home and let the boys. There ain't nothin' else to do up here."

With this he sauntered away, but quickened his step when he had turned into the lonely road leading to the Smith domicile.

It's all right," he assured Roberta. "The Whangdoodle told me the story of his life at the store this afternoon. He's staying at the Jaffrey Inn."

"Why do you call him the Whangdoodle?"

"Well, he 'mourneth or he lost love, doth he not?"

"Idiot," said Roberta. "Stop blithering. Go up and change your clothes."

He donned his brown overalls and canvas hunting coat, while she put aside her flowing symbols of bereavement in favor of the cloth suit and close hat in which she traveled as less likely to provoke progress through the woods than her long crepe veil. She took the precaution, however, of wearing the latter until they had left Fitzwilliam behind, though they did not start until the early morning occupants of the two houses they had to pass were sound asleep. Piggy had decided to take an indirect route, Troy and Ballou, in order to avoid the centers of both Fitzwilliam and Jaffrey. It was somewhat longer than his usual road, but safer from observation.

Warning Janet to keep the lower lights burning until eleven o'clock when she was to extinguish them and light Roberta's bedroom for half an hour thereafter waiting in darkness for the return of the relief expedition, they crawled silently away to the car. Various aids to the execution of nefarious purpose were stowed in Piggy's pockets, and under the rug at Roberta's feet in the tonneau, was a demijohn filled with gasoline beside it a long narrow box from which came sounds of alarm. Added to these was Janet's dark coat for Celia, who might conceivably need it.

Thus armed and panoplied for high adventure, they slid over the deserted roads, unobserved. Deep in the woods, nearing their destination, Piggy quenched his lights and ran the remainder of the distance slowly and in darkness, save for the dim radiance of the moon filtered through the trees.

TRIED FOR INSANITY

MOTHER OF SEVEN CHILDREN

Helped in Caring for them by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Glasgow, Ky.—"I am the mother of seven children, the eldest being only 12 years, and I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to pull me through the roughest places of my married life. At one time I was so downhearted that life was a misery. A friend in Indianapolis, Indiana, told me of the Vegetable Compound, and after taking a few bottles of it I became myself again and it was a pleasure to do my housework and gardening. Since then I always use your medicine when I feel weak from overwork and it straightens me out."—Mrs. Melissa Barbers, Route 2, care of O. F. Steenbergen, Glasgow, Ky.

New Orleans, La.—"I could not do a thing after my first boy was born. I was so weak, I had no appetite, lost weight and was not able to do my work. I was this way for seven weeks, then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got wonderful results from it."—Mrs. C. Faurie, 4014 Dauphine St., New Orleans, La.

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant—children like it, and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid, too, for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PINEX for Coughs

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

A [illegible] glass of [illegible] stirring [illegible] Henry Hamilton [illegible] mouth which was [illegible] [illegible] too was [illegible] [illegible] Henderson compelled [illegible] the [illegible] lesson. Our [illegible] had said politely to me [illegible] we married people have problems which were not pictured from [illegible] pulpit.

Disguise facts to [illegible] and plans to Dicky's defense, though I might, [illegible] circumstances [illegible] my husband would [illegible] true [illegible] [illegible] shrewd surmise that the charm and [illegible] ing mentality of Philip Vernon were strange's intriguing me. The only thing to which I could object logically was his advice to consider Hugh Grantland's unswerving devotion to me. Dicky's conduct should ever [illegible] to be divided. And though [illegible] was [illegible] and revolution [illegible] at war of the world [illegible] my father's sensibilities which I had [illegible] given him.

I had no chance for the moment, however, to offer the apology upon my lips, for my father was speaking, with a rush of agitated words:

"Please forgive me!"

"Oh, my darling girl! have I wounded you so sorely?" he exclaimed remorsefully, but there was something in his tone which told me that his contrition was only for his fancied rudeness in telling me what he had. There was in it no change of opinion, no backing down from the sterling things he had said. But though that knowledge troubled me, it made no slightest difference in my own tempestuous apology.

"Father dear, please forgive me," I pleaded. "It was beastly of me to flare at you that way when you were trying so hard to help me. And—and I—suppose you are right about—"

He put his hand lightly over my lips. "Dear child," he said softly, "tell me nothing about nothing, even to yourself, at this time. You are too shocked, too much overwrought, and it is my fault. I should have been more adroit, and less sudden in my counsel. But your forgiveness is sweet to me, and with it we will put away the unpleasant things of which we were talking. But I am counting on your memory of ever in the future you should wish my counsel and I should not be near you."

The vague fear which had been mine ever since I had noted his old reception of Hugh Grantland's coded cablegram, flamed into terror.

Sealing the Promise

"What do you mean, father?" I cried in panic. "Why should you not be near me always, at least as near as the farm is to the city? I thought that was one reason you had settled down here—you told me for the rest of your life."

"So I have, so I have, dearest," he said hurriedly, "but you know that they occasionally call me down to Washington for consultation upon some secret service problem, so that I might very well be absent at just the time that you needed me."

It was a lame excuse, and the hesitating evasion of his manner deepened my conviction that something confronted my father, some danger or trouble, which he did not wish me to know. But it was evident that he did not intend to admit me into his confidence, and I forbore to question him.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Adv.

Keep Hair Tidy, Keep It Curly

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Summer and winter my hair is ever curly. It is tidy, but fluffy. It has a glow. Yet I never visit a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave.

Those results are due to a hair dress which great experts made especially for me. I apply it twice a week. It doubles the beauty of my hair in an hour. And that wave and sheen remain.

Now you can obtain the same product. All toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c. My guarantee comes with each bottle, so you take no risk.

This is a delight—one of the best things I ever found for women, especially those with bobbed hair. In summer it is essential. Go try it now.

CONTINUATION SCHOOL MEETS WITH APPROVAL

Bing Law Recently Adopted by Galion Board; Classes Being Held

Galion, Oct. 26—The Galion Continuation school is meeting with much approval and a great deal of benefit has already been derived from this newly organized plan. The Bing law was recently adopted by the Galion Board of Education and it is in accordance with it that the continuance school is being conducted.

The law states that students who discontinue their regular school studies before they are eighteen years of age must attend specially supervised classes several times a week that some sort of general education may be acquired. It has been proven necessary in a number of cases to have children stop school and assist in the family earnings. A number of the boys of this age are employed at factories, stores, filling stations and shoe repair shops while the girls find work at garment factories and in homes. Two evenings a week these young people attend sessions in the Junior High building and are instructed in Mathematics, English, Civics and sketching while an additional course in Home-making is offered for the benefit of the girls. All courses are under the supervision of Mr. Borst and Miss Dorothy Moore, two of the younger members of the faculty who in addition to their teaching duties spend several hours a week in visiting the pupils of the continuation school at their work and in their homes.

ASK INVESTIGATION OF STATIC SOURCE

Kenton, Oct. 26—Federal radio authorities at Detroit have been asked to make an investigation of power leakage in Ada, west of here, which is said to be interfering seriously with the operation of at least 200 radio sets.

Action requesting federal aid was taken by the Ada council upon advice of recommendations by special council committee.

Complaints have been received from scores of radio owners that their sets are practically useless during the greater part of the evening. The utility supplying the college town with electric current has refused to correct the trouble until it is definitely learned by those filing the complaints, it was charged before the Ada council.

Attitude taken by the utility in not cooperating with the officials of the town and its citizens, was scored by councilmen. They also charge that the power company is not carrying out the terms of its franchise and that requests from council are being met with nothing but promises.

FOUR CARS WRECKED IN BLINDING SNOWSTORM

Galion, Oct. 26—The blinding snow storm of Sunday night was responsible for the wrecking of four cars on the Galion-Bucyrus-rd. The first of the series of smash-ups occurred at about 2:30 in the morning when a touring car and a sedan collided. Case Plays Biggest Conference Game at Oberlin Saturday; Leaders Rest

Scientists Battle to Win for Their "Bob" Fletcher Who Admires Team's Work

Undefeated Ohio Conference Elevens Have Little Trouble Ahead This Week in Regular Schedule While Some Are Playing Non-Conference Games; Others Not Scheduled

Cleveland, Oct. 26—They call him "Bob" out at Case School of Applied Science, not "Coach Fletcher" or "Mr. Fletcher," or even "Coach."

They call him "Bob," the short-curly haired, red-cheeked mentor of the Case eleven and they ar willing to break their collective necks for him.

They, this smart brown and white football squad, face their real opportunity to add laurels to Bob Fletcher's footbal fame and if it is within the power of human beings to do so, Case's gridiron warriors will beat Oberlin at Oberlin this Saturday, in the biggest Ohio Conference game of the week.

The brown and white have been rather slow in rounding into shape. Up to date, there has been a roughness that is gradually wearing off and there have been evidences of bad judgment in the calling of plays that resulted in being tied by Akron and losing to Wooster. But, these difficulties are now over. The Scientists are running smoothly and Quarterback Freshhorn has profited by his errors and now runs his eleven well so that it shows it utmost power when needed.

Everything for "Bob"

Back of it all is the love for "Bob," who has nursed them along from gridiron sucklings into a formidable outfit. Case has a remarkable line, strong, alert and everything.

The backfield, molded and remolded as injuries made the changes necessary, is versatile, having the drive for line plays and the skill and adroitness needed for the end runs. Then there are the passes carefully taught and planned by Fletcher, which have proved real ground gainers. This is the brown and white eleven against which the Oberlin backs and line must push back to hold their undefeated record, existant since 1923.

Oberlin Is Strong

Oberlin itself, is far from the weak sister class. Every crimson and gold aggregation has been a keen, ball watching group of opportunists who can and do take advantage of every break. Oberlin's line will match Case, man for man, possibly outweigh the visitors, while Poe, Burr, Hansbury and Fleming present a deadly backfield. Each man is a good ground gainer and each a sterling defensive player. It will be a whale of a game with the same guess as to the outcome as there is to the number of beans in the glass bowl in front of Hauser's general store.

Of the other undefeated teams, Muskingum should encounter little trouble with Otterbein at Westerville. The United Brethren haven't the power to withstand the attack of the Magenta backfield, nor have they sufficient impetus in their own offensive to do much damage.

Leaders Not Scheduled

Wooster, Dayton, Wittenberg and St. Xavier, the other 1,000 per cent team, either are unscheduled or play no conference opponents.

At Cleveland the Pioneers can regain some of their trampled laurels when Reserve plays and defeats Cincinnati.

The Bear Cats are all here when it comes to football merits, this season and the 13-3 defeat of Reserve by Wooster, will only serve to spur on the red and white in the hope of regaining enough credit and football momentum to enable them to best Ohio Wesleyan and Case in later games.

Baldwin Wallace Visits Akron

Akron vs. Baldwin Wallace at Akron is a game fit for the football gods, for here are two evenly matched outfits, removed from title consideration by virtue of defeat and yet stronger this season than heretofore. It's almost a toss-up, but Akron is a slight favorite.

Fresh from a great triumph over Cincinnati and heading the Buckeye Athletic Association, Ohio University's health gang meets Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware. If Eddie Blickle can play his usual game, the Battling Bishops are carded to win, otherwise the green and white will keep their B. A. record unstained. Only 10 points have been scored against the Athenians so far this year and last week Ohio showed a real attack.

Heidelberg Should Win

Heidelberg is favored to defeat Ohio Northern in the annual setto at Tiffin by a score similar to last year, when the Tiffinites won a 7-0 contest from the Norsemen. Two teams which have each lost three and won none meet at Gambier when Kenyon clashes with Marietta and it looks as if the conference babies were due for another loss. At Alliance, Mt. Union will meet Hiram and if the cherry and blue show up as well as it did against Baldwin Wallace, last Friday, the purple may have trouble. However, if Hiram relapses to its old form it will be an easy win for Coach Thorpe's eleven. Defeated by Case last week after a sturdy defense for the first three quarters, Denison plays Miami at Dayton and should win. The open field running of Stubbs is likely to be the deciding factor in the game.

Hard Year on Stars
Scheduling Games
Oom Paul Ready

By NORMAN E. BROWN

THIS apparently is a hard year on football stars.

With the season just well under way, several of the outstanding stars of the game have suffered serious injuries.

Boland, Notre Dame star, was the first. He suffered injuries in the Minnesota game which have kept him out ever since and probably will prevent him from playing the rest of the season.

Syracuse suffered a double blow in its recent game with the Army. In addition to having what it hoped to be a great season marred by a defeat at the hands of the Mule the Syracuse team lost "Whippet" Carr, backfield star and "last resort" man of the team. Carr, Syracuse adherents claim, was "clipped" from behind and the ligaments in his leg torn so seriously that he will not be available for weeks.

Army backs not only deny that the injury to Carr was intentional but refer to alleged "unnecessary" roughness by Syracuse players. Be that as it may Syracuse is without the services of Carr—a tough blow.

Yale has lost Caldwell for a time at least. This is a serious setback to the Blue's hopes. Caldwell is probably the most consistent ground gainer the New Haven team boasts.

Other colleges have suffered injuries of more or less seriousness to their best men.

* * *

ANENT the matter of unnecessary roughness it is reported from several points that an element of rowdyism has crept into several games of more or less importance. The Purdue-Wabash game is one listed among "those things."

And another condition has bobbed up, which if not checked immediately, is liable to hurt the game.

U. S. Military Academy athletic officials are said to be somewhat peeved over Notre Dame's announced plan to play the Army and the Navy next fall.

This little peeve, in itself, is not important, but it raises the question as to how much longer the desire for intersectional games among colleges can continue before more strained relations of a similar type develop.

Supposing some other Big Ten team coaxed Tulane into a game? What would be the feeling at Northwestern, which has come to count on the visit of the southerners as one of the high spots of the season?

What if Chicago were to switch its eastern appearance to some other campus after several annual clashes with Pennsylvania?

It can readily be seen that there is a pitfall lurking in the intersectional craze that must be watched carefully.

* * *

PAUL BERLENBACH, the man who started the light heavyweight ranks a couple of years ago with his powerful hitting, is ready to step into the heavyweight class and go after big game there. This is the announcement as Paul the Assassin returns east from California.

Paul decided several months ago that bigger money awaited him in the top class. This before the Tunney-Dempsey fight became a settled affair. He had hopes then of getting a bout with Tunney or even with Dempsey if only as a "set-up" for either one. Then, when Tunney startled most of us (and I can hear some readers chuckle) by licking Dempsey, Berlenbach decided that he might have a change at the crown itself.

While out on the coast acquiring weight, Berlenbach saw Johnny Risko and several other of the much talked of heavies, in action and decided he could take some of them into camp.

Now he's ready. He wants to meet Knute Hansen, Monte Munn, Harry Persson or any of the other young men who have ambitions and a willingness to swap punches. And he'll probably get his wish. He always has been popular in the east. His bouts with Jimmy Delaney and others drew big crowds and sweet purses.

Coach Biff Jones Gives West Point Powerful Attack Instead of Deceptive Style Used by Many Opponents

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

WEST POINT, New York, Oct. 26—The old army game.

Famed for its deathless appeal this phrase has come down through the ages from the ballyhoo men at the come-on "ats" and today it is being followed with great faithfulness on the plains of West Point by a veteran Army team that has known its effectiveness these many years. In baseball it stands for conservatism and conservative to a fault was Army football under Daly.

Ultimately, the Army changed coaches, but it didn't change system. Even with Jack McEwan in the saddle, it played the old army game of hit the tackle, sweep the end, throw a pass, punt. McEwan did borrow a bit of Notre Dame's backfield shift, but he preferred power over deception to the last and today it is being used to even greater advantage under Biff Jones, who has the men to carry it out.

Army Has 11 Veterans

At least eleven veterans are at his service and some of them played three or four years of college football before ever they saw the plains or felt an upper classman's lack of approval. The system hardly matters in this case; the Army has the men.

Never give a sap an even break. That was a popular comedian's interpretation of the old army game and West Point seems to be following it rather literally. It has a schedule that calls for games with Syracuse, Yale, Notre Dame and the Navy, but the boy who drafted that schedule was no fat-head. He interloped plenty of breathers and the first of these games came last Saturday following the hard game with Syracuse. He arranged for Boston University to come to the point on that occasion and the boys were very careful not to give the come-on anything even faintly suggestive of an even break.

Play Yale Saturday

Yale will be played Saturday. The next opponent—Franklin and Marshall. After that comes Notre Dame. Next? Ursinus. Quite so; that boy knew his way around.

The only game the Army has had a chance of losing so far was that with Syracuse. It had to come from behind to win but a team with all that power and punch figures to have plenty of reserve for the final period. It has a line, reading from left to right, that is absolutely food-proof, the forwards including Born, Saunders, Schmidt, Daly, Seeman, Sprague and Harbold. Born was a near all-American last year, Harbold was one of his running-mates, Brentnall and Davidson also have had experience.

Veterans Working

Saunders and Sprague, veterans both, are fine offensive tackles and are extremely aggressive on defense. Fletcher, Muz, Perry and Strayer are excellent substitutes. Schmidt, Daly and Seeman, of Hamack, forming the center trio, have been around long enough to know West Point's requirements in every particular. Lynch, another guard, has looked good on occasion. There are several all-American possibilities among the forwards. The backfield, ably directed by Harding, features off tackle slants, wide sweeps around the ends by Harry Wilson and Trapnell, an occasional pass just to keep the opposition in its place and a sound kicking game.

Wilson and Harding are veteran backs. So are Hewitt and Trapnell, but the latter pair have been allowed to the sidelines by Cagle and Murrell, fine plunges, both. Murrell, they say, was better than Joesting at Minnesota and Cagle also came to the point with a college reputation, which he failed to dissipate. Hewitt of course, is held in reserve to be shot at an opposing line when it is weary and flat of foot.

It is a great system when you have the men. However, it may not be enough when West Point plays the big timers and finds that Yale, Notre Dame and the Navy are just a bit inclined to have men, too. Chances are that "Biff" Jones will see fit to equip the strategic sleeve with some modicum of deception by that time.

The Harvard baseball team may visit Japan next summer for an exhibition tour.

Mrs. Archie MacLean, of Lachine, Canada, tells that, while playing on the Senneville golf course, she noticed a squirrel carrying off a golf ball. She followedthe little creature to a hole in a tree, where she discovered a cache of no fewer than sixty-eight golf balls. Mrs. MacLean, on taking out this amazing collections, replaced it with sixty-eight nuts.

An exciting tennis game was once played on the upper wings of an aeroplane in full flight. With a net stretched between them, the daring aviators returned each other's service from the base-lines of this extraordinary court, which were represented by the extreme ends of the rocking wings. Although both men had their feet roped down, the sport was highly dangerous.

Dayton—Frankie Bob, of Dayton, and Sid Conn, of Manchester, England, fought a furious 12-round draw; Louis Lavelle Anderson, Ind., won decision over Jim Wright, Dayton, 10 rounds; Joe Lawrence defeated Speedy Miller, of Cincinnati, eight rounds.

World Famous Indians Go to Ashland, Ky., Sunday to Open Annual Grid Tour

Local Professional Star Signs To Play Until Haskell University Indian Students Graduate at Mid-Year; To Make Tour Through Oklahoma and Texas

THE World Famous Indians professional football team, managed this season by Coach Emmett McLemore of LaRue, is scheduled to play its initial game Sunday at Ashland, Ky., with the American Rolling Mills.

Following the Kentucky game, the Indians will battle Buffalo's National League team which played Los Angeles a scoreless game Sunday. Coach McLemore will then return to Pennsylvania with his Indian chiefs to play a series of games with New Kensington and Brownsville. The Dayton Triangles have reorganized and are playing this season under the name of Dayton's Koors. The Koors will be the next opponents for the Indians. Dates for these games have not been definitely decided, according to Manager McLemore.

The World Famous Indians do not claim the world's championship. But they do claim to be the only all-Indian team playing independent football in the United States.

Local Player Signed

Announcement was made today that Francis Bacon of this city, has been signed to assist in the management and coaching of the Indians.

Shim Lingrel, halfback, of Kenton, has also been signed for this winter's tour. Lingrel starred with the Indians last year. Shim's brother Brady is well known in Pacific Coast Baseball League circles. Both players are stars at their respective games.

Going West in December

Following the tour through the east in November, the World Famous Indians will be joined by other stars. Team plans to go to Oklahoma early in December when it will start playing a series of exhibition games with the Texas Rangers, which team is composed chiefly of former Texas University stars.

Coach McLemore is anxious to return to Lawrence, Kan., where he captained the famous Haskell Indian University team in 1922.

Visit Haskell University

At Haskell University the World Famous Indians will be joined by other Indian brothers who expect to graduate at mid-year. The World Famous Indians team is the only organization with which Indian college stars can continue the sport with their brothers. Many of the stars are excellent students and have professions or business which they follow after the season closes. The trip through Oklahoma, where they will be greeted by many Indian friends and down along the Mississippi to Texas is looked forward to annually by the Haskell University graduates.

The Indians were organized four years ago and each year they have made cross continent tours for the benefit of the Haskell graduates.

Haskell Stars Sign

This year the team will be joined at the University by the following stars, according to Manager McLemore's announcement:

Levi and John George, brothers; Egbert Ward, Elijah Smith Jerry Kilbuck, Joe Pappio and Tiny Kilbuck who is starting the season with the Indians. Tiny is Jerry's brother.

Tiny, as he is called by the chieftains, weighs exactly 247 pounds and stands 6 feet 5 inches. He is what the Indians call a football guard. Tiny also plays baseball and basketball with the Indins.

Carlile University

Chief Long Time Sleep, former Carlisle University star, and Vance McGilbra, Indian star last year, are with the team again this season.

Arrangements are also being made to have Mayes McLain, Haskell University star, join the team as early as possible this season.

The squad will use a number of local professional football players on their southern and eastern tour before reinforcements arrive from the Haskell University. A squad of 27 men is carried on all tours and when the team plays its series with the Texas Rangers nearer 40 men will be carried for the purpose of safeguarding the team against injuries and other unforseen misfortunes.

Tour Oil Fields

The annual trip through the Oklahoma and Texas oil fields is of much interest to the young Indians because of the fact that a number own stock in some of the big producers. For this reason it is not difficult for them to find many friends willing to accompany the team on its 60 days tour.

Coach McLemore intimated recently that providing the team proves to be a winner this season it may spend a greater part of the winter in Florida playing a series of exhibition games.

OHIO STATE AND MICHIGAN TEAMS LOOM IN BIG TEN

Ohio State, reveling in its first victory over Iowa since the two opened football relations, now looms as the team to contest with Michigan the right to claim the Big Ten honors this year. OWEN J. BUSH NAMED AS NEW PIRATE PILOT

"Donie" To Have Full Authorities of Pittsburgh Club

Pittsburgh, Oct. 26—"The new manager will be in complete authority and will pick his own aides," Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said today, commenting upon his selection of Owen J. "Donie" Bush as the new Pirate manager.

"Bush is known as a hustler," Dreyfuss said. "He knows baseball thoroughly and is a man of excellent character. We will cooperate with him in every way."

Bush, who comes here from Indianapolis where he managed an American Association team for three years, each year landing the club in second place, will direct the Pirates from the bench. His contract is for one year and was signed after Dreyfuss had considered a score of candidates.

Fifteen different nationalities are represented on this year's football team at the University of Maine.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

This morning it was colder yet when I let Jubilee down, and when I had fed up and milked the cows and strained the milk my grandfather was putting on his collar, and he had his pipe in his mouth, and he was working one end of the collar and the other end was sticking out, and my aunt said "Let me give you a light." And she lit a match on the stove and he stuck his face with the pipe in it out for the light, and she touched the end of his collar with the light, and the next thing anybody knew my grandfather was dancing around the room clawing at his collar which was all on fire.

When he got it off he stood looking at my aunt like he would like to bite her head off, and she said, "Oh, I am sorry!" And my grandfather said, "I am a good liar too." He was not burnt any; he got it off too quick. So maybe my aunt was sorry after all.

It was quite a while till school so we went over to Nib's house and he has got a butternut tree in his backyard, and the nuts are so loose that they fall off if anyone looks at them, but we threw a club, and we all got our pockets full, and we rubbed some of the juice from the shucks on the Lost Bag of Tripe's face and told him the teacher would think he was breaking out with something and let him go home but she didn't, she said "Hennery (she calls him Hennery because that is his name) go down to the basement and wash your face with soap!" so he did, but that is one thing you can't wash off, and he came back grinning and took his seat, and we all got busy.

After lunch time when we were getting our jogafry Mush's wife came in with a big long handled pan and a big spoon and she went right acrost to where the teacher was and dug out a spoonful of what was in the pan, and hollered "Taste that!" And when the teacher asted her what was the matter she said she had a stew on the stove when the Lost Bag of Tripe came down there to wash his face, and when they went to eat dinner someone had put a piece of soap in it. The teacher had her bring up a bowl of it and made the Lost Bag of Tripe eat it; he got most of it down, and then it all came up. He got to the window just in time. We were so sorry for him we hoorawed the crook all the way home.

I filled the baseburner and went to bed early. Jubilee was glad, because it gets colder at night.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

There was but one leaf left hanging on a maple tree that grew in the woods not far from Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. It was the last leaf, for all the others had turned golden, red, purple or brown and had been blown off and away by the wind.

"Why don't you let me go?" whispered the leaf to the tree. "I don't want to stay here all alone when my brothers and sisters have gone! There is no fun here! See what the others are doing!"

The last leaf looked down on the floor of the forest where the leaves had fallen after being blown loose by the wind. The other leaves were scurrying to and fro, playing tag and hide and go seek or swirling high up like airships.

"I want to go with them!" cried the last leaf, who was getting impatient and fussy.

"It isn't time yet for you to go, my dear," said the tree. "In a little while you may blow down and join the others. But you are better off up here. You can see more. On the ground you will soon become brittle, and dry and break in pieces."

"I don't care!" sighed the last leaf. "I want to go! I don't like staying here all alone!"

He twisted and turned, he flapped up and down in the wind, but the breeze was not quite strong enough to loosen the stem of the last leaf, and he remained fastened to the tree.

"What is the good of staying here" sighed the last leaf again.

"You will see after a while," spoke the tree. "All in good time. You are being kept here for a purpose, though what it is I do not know, nor do you. Be patient."

But the last leaf was very impatient and sighed and was very unhappy, swirling about. Down below on the ground the other leaves were in a merry dance. But, as the parent tree said, many of them were dry and had broken to pieces.

After a while Uncle Wiggily hopped to the woods, looking for an adventure, and the rabbit gentleman heard what the last leaf was saying about wanting to get loose and drift.

"Why must I stay here?" the leaf sighed.

"I don't know," answered the rabbit gentleman, "but I will sit down here on this stump and think about it. I may be able to think of a reason why you are still held fast to the tree."

As Uncle Wiggily sat there, his head drooped lower and lower, and, all of a sudden, he fell asleep. And while he slept along came slinking the Fox, who wanted to catch the rabbit gentleman for his dinner.

"Oh, look!" said the leaf to the tree. "Uncle Wiggily is in danger! Call to him to awaken and run away from the Fox!" The leaf and the tree called loudly to the bunny: "Awake! Get up! Run! The Fox is coming"!

But as their voices were not very loud, the sleeping rabbit did not hear.

Along came slinking the Fox and he still slept soundly. Nearer and nearer crept the slinking Fox, and he was just ready to leap out of the bushes and get the bunny uncle.

"Oh, what can I do to save him?" cried the last leaf. "Oh, if I were only free to go down and call in his ears I would awaken him" And just then there came a strong puff of wind which tore the leaf loose from the tree. "At last I am free!" he cried, and down the wind fluttered him until the last leaf blew on Uncle Wiggily's pink nose tickling it.

"Aker-choo! Ker zoo! Ker foo!" sneezed Mr. Longears and he sneezed himself awake just in time to see the slinking Fox. "Oh, you won't get me!" cried the bunny and he hopped so fast that before the Fox could untangle himself from the bush where he was hiding, the rabbit was safe out of the woods.

Down to the ground fluttered the last leaf.

"Now I understand why I couldn't go before," he said to the tree. "There was something for me to do and I did it!"

"Yes," whispered the tree, "you did. You saved Uncle Wiggily!" And the next day Mr. Longears thanked all the leaves in the wood for he could not tell among so many fallen ones, which had done him the favor. At any rate the last leaf was now happy with the others. And if the fire shovel doesn't bite on the stick of wood, thinking it is peppermint candy I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Lulu's quack

STRAYER PRAISED FOR CONDITION AT HOSPITAL

City Institution Now Paying Its Own Way, Solicitor Mouser Points Out

Pra... for progress made in ma... ...ent of the City Hospital by the Safety Inspector W. B Strayer during the last year was voiced by City Solicitor Grant E Mouser, Jr., at Monday night's council meeting when figures were submitted showing that the hospital is now paying its own way as far as operating expenses are concerned. This condition has existed during the last few months, reports show.

Total receipts for the last nine and a half months of this year were $87,689.18 an increase of $6,780.79 over receipts for the same period during 1925.

Commendation for the hospital management came in connection with an explanation of an ordinance appropriating $3,375 to cover hospital expenses for the remainder of the year. A large part of this money is to be used for the purchase of new operating room equipment. All of this expense, it was explained, will be paid from money included in hospital receipts.

INDUSTRIAL STOCKS MARK TIME TODAY

Decision of United States Steel Corporation Directors Is Awaited

New York Oct. 26—Industrial stocks ... [illegible] ... mark time today ... [illegible] ... Directors of the United States Steel Corporation ... [illegible] ... declaration of the regular quarterly dividend on the common stock ... [illegible] ... the corresponding period of May, stock ... [illegible] ... moved in much narrower, irregular ... [illegible] ... specialties lagged ... [illegible] ... recently featured. Profit-taking from the previous closing level ...

Radical stress started a new rally in the fourth hour, to the announcement of rumors that the public utilities statements would result in much good news for the bulls in addition to which our constructive announcement; with respect to railroad consolidations will be made.

Norfolk & Western, Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania were the leaders in the movement.

The new price cuts announced were not unexpected. Lower wages in the several districts as the consummation of developments which have been overhanging the market for about a month. The only real cause for alarm in trade circles have not been drastic enough to put a check on the enormous over production now taking place in the newly discovered fields where storage facilities are poor. Oil stocks were steady but this group showed a wary touch of distrust with the average outside trader, and the volume of business was small.

NO DATE SET TO LET CONTRACT FOR MEMORIAL

Architects for Monument Expected Here Next Week To Go Over Bids

No definite date has yet been set for the awarding of the contract for the construction of the Harding Memorial Monument, Hoke Donithen, chairman of the executive committee of the Harding Memorial Association announced today.

A meeting of the committee was held yesterday afternoon in Donithen's office following the receiving of sealed proposals for the contract.

The bids were considered and discussed by members of the executive committee but no definite action toward the awarding of the contract will be taken until the arrival of the architects in this city.

Eric Fisher Wood and Henry Hornbostel, of Pittsburgh, architects of the monument, are expected here next week, and the bids will again be considered at that time.

First Bids Rejected

Bids on the memorial were first received several months ago and it was expected that the contract would be awarded at the annual meeting of the Harding Memorial Association at Washington, D. C., Oct. 4. All bids, however, were rejected at that time.

Specifications for the memorial were changed following the rejection and bids under the revised plans were received yesterday in the office of Attorney Hoke Donithen.

Date for the completion of the structure was first set for June 1, 1927, but following the delay in the awarding of the contract, the date was set for Nov. 1, 1927.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO PURCHASE HOME SITE

Council Names Men To Buy Tract for Police-Firemen Cottage

The committee which will have charge of the purchase and planning of a vacation home for Marion policemen and firemen and their families, made possible by a recent gift of $2,520 from the Osgood Co., was appointed in a resolution adopted Monday night by City Council. It is made up of Safety Director W. B. Strayer, who will act as chairman, Mayor Earl M. Hazen, President of Council Emery E. Murphy, Fire Chief T. J. McFarland, Police Chief J. W. Thompson, C. A. Owen, vice president and secretary of the Osgood Co., and C. B. King, vice president and general manager of the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

According to the provisions of the resolution, this committee is authorized to select and purchase a site for the home and to accept any other money, in addition to the $2,520 already donated, that may be received for the fund. It is indicated that several additional gifts of substantial proportions are likely.

The committee, which was appointed in accordance with a request made by the Osgood Co. in turning the money over to the fund, is also expected to have charge of planting the home and the grounds surrounding it. Although no definite details have been worked out it is indicated that the plans will have a site sufficiently large to provide space for a baseball diamond and other facilities for various forms of recreation.

A spot on the shores of Lake Erie, as near as possible to Marion, has been proposed as the prospective location of the vacation home.
